Thieves Loot W. Va. Vault Of $500,000

$300,000 Cash In Auto License Receipts Taken

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Thieves hammered through eight inches of concrete to get into a vault early Monday and made off with the biggest robbery haul in West Virginia history, estimated at more than $300,000 in cash.

State Motor Vehicles Commissioner J. Marshall Holcomb, from whose department the money was taken, made the cash loss estimate. Holcomb said he feared checks which also were taken would boost the total loot to as much as a half-million dollars. The money consisted of receipts of the past three or four days in the annual automobile license rush. Plates expire June 30.

Main Safe Unlocked
The loss could have been worse. The money was taken from a dozen cash lockers in the motor vehicles department's walk-in vault, where the agency's main safe also is located. The thieves apparently didn't even try to open the safe, which Holcomb said contained about a half million dollars in cash and checks.

The State Insurance Board said the loss was insured to the extent of $300,000 on the vault and another $300,000 on the contents of the safe.

All West Virginia plates are issued from the department's headquarters on the first floor of an eight-story state office building across the street from the state capitol. This is where the robbery took place.

The last employee to leave the department, a man who checks vehicle registration inquiries for the state police, went off duty Sunday midnight. The robbery evidently took place between then and 6:20 a.m. Monday when it was discovered by a janitor making his rounds.

Basement Door Unlocked
A basement door found unlocked in the morning may have been the way the thieves entered the building.

They bypassed the heavy, safe-type steel door of the vault. First they made unsuccessful attempts to break through the wall of the vault from adjoining rooms, one housing the department switchboard and the other a coat closet. Then they broke through the ceiling of the switchboard room and climbed into an air space between the ceiling and the second floor. From there they could crawl to a place directly over the vault.

To come down through the vault ceiling they had to smash through eight inches of concrete.

There were no immediate reports of casualties or damage to property.

Early morning workers, however, received a scare as the buildings shook for several seconds.

The Tokyo meteorological agency said the epicenter of the earthquake was about 30 miles below Mt. Tsukuba in Ibaraki Prefecture, north of Tokyo.

A spokesman for the agency said the tremor registered two on a scale of seven in Tokyo.

Several newspaper stories recently omitted use of Mikoyan's title as first deputy, calling him only deputy premier. This started a study here as to whether he had been demoted.

Both winners added Emmy statuettes to Oscars they won previously in motion pictures. Miss Bergman was voted her award for most outstanding single performance by an actress in "The Turn of the Screw" which beamed last Oct. 20. Olivier's tribute was for his highly dramatic performance in "The Moon and Sixpence," televised last Oct. 30.

Neither star was present to accept his award. Miss Bergman's statuette was accepted by producer Hubbell Robinson, while Charlton Heston, who won this year's Oscar in "Ben-Hur," accepted for Olivier.

Senate Votes Tax 'Swindle Sheet' Curbs

Also Would Extend 10% Levy On Phone Calls, Travel Tickets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Monday night passed a revised $4,500,000,000 tax extension bill which would wipe out some "swindle sheet" business deductions and the present tax credit on dividends.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted Monday night to tighten the rules on "swindle sheet" tax reductions for business entertainment, gifts and club dues.

It also voted to retain the 10 per cent tax on local telephone calls, telegrams and travel tickets, and adopted amendments to the House-passed tax extension bill that would yield an estimated $1,109,000,000 in extra revenue.

The crackdown on business expense deductions was adopted by a roll call vote of 45-39 as the Senate drove toward final passage of the tax measure.

Other changes designed to raise new cash were elimination of a special tax credit on dividend income and tightening of the minerals depletion allowance.

The big tax bill would continue for another year the high tax rates imposed during the Korean war on corporations and such consumer items as liquor, cigarettes and new automobiles.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) offered the business expense amendment. He said it would rule out "swindle sheets" on business entertainment expenses, gifts exceeding $10 and club dues. He said it would allow deductions only for "food and liquor."

Clark said his amendment would produce 250 million dollars a year in additional federal revenues.

The amendment ending the 4 per cent tax credit on dividend income was estimated to be worth 350 million dollars a year in added revenue.

The excise taxes on phone calls, telegrams and travel yield another 752 million dollars annually. The telephone-telegram tax was kept in the bill by a vote of 54-30.

The travel levy, taken up separately, was retained by a tally of 55-29. The moves were a slap for the Senate Finance Committee which recommended dropping the levies.

Lady Motorist Lost On Runway Delays Planes

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A woman stopped traffic Monday at busy Love Field, the city's airport.

Policeman B. E. Schaffer said she was driving south on the north-south runway. The control tower said it first saw the woman driver through the southwest automotive area. Then she got onto the runway and several flights had to be kept in the air until the runway was clear for landing.

Schaffer said the motorist identified herself as Barbara Langley, 62, of Irving. The woman said she got lost, and then became frightened when she realized she was on the runway and didn't know how to get off.

John B. Kelly, 70, Father Of Princess Grace, Dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John B. Kelly Sr., famed athlete of another day and father of Monaco's Princess Grace, died at home Monday at the age of 70.

His doctor said death was caused by intestinal cancer. Kelly recently underwent abdominal surgery. He had also been operated on a year ago.

The famous daughter, a movie queen before her marriage to Prince Rainier of the little Mediterranean principality, came home to be with her father in a critical time. She returned to Monaco only last week, her father having been discharged from the hospital.

Kelly was a colorful member of a family often called fabulous and his life story is a study in success. American style. From timekeeper and bricklayer, he rose to preeminence in business, sports and as a patron of the arts.

Not the least of his achievements, according to his lights, was

President Ends Far East Tour On High Note

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Eisenhower ended his Far Eastern tour on a high note and headed home Monday.

The welcome of nearly three million Asians—Filipinos, Nationalist Chinese, Okinawans and Koreans—had offset to some extent the cancellation, because of leftist rioting, of a projected visit to Japan.

On balance, Eisenhower's trip was a success, through he had to skip the main stop, Tokyo. That scored a point for the Communists.

The Reds picked up another point on American-run Okinawa. There they were able to mobilize 1,500 chanting, snake-dancing demonstrators who marred with shouts of "go home" the otherwise friendly reception of the President by 150,000 Okinawans.

Eisenhower made points in South Korea and the Philippines. He got a wildly exuberant welcome in both places.

In South Korea, the enthusiasm for the U.S. President appeared to be a continuation of the good feeling toward Americans stemming from what South Koreans consider decisive U.S. help in getting rid of President Syngman Rhee in the April revolution.

In the Philippines, the welcome solidified traditional American ties with that young republic, which was freed by the United States 14 years ago.

Eisenhower was also warmly received in Formosa, island bastion of Chiang Kai-shek. But that doesn't count much in Asia.

In most Far Eastern countries—including Japan—Chiang is considered an American idiosyncrasy, tolerated for friendship's sake.

Nevertheless, Eisenhower's Formosa visit drew the most violent reaction of all from the Communist sphere. For his arrival and departure from Formosa, Red China's gunners loosed the heaviest barrages of their long war against Nationalist-held Quemoy.

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — A terrific explosion wrecked four buildings in Haven, Kan., Monday, injuring at least four persons. The wreckage was being searched for others.

Highway patrolmen said the explosion apparently came from an accumulation of natural gas. There was no fire.

The blast damaged the Haven Journal building, a hardware store and a service station.

Haven is a town of about 700 population, 12 miles southeast of Hutchinson in central Kansas.

Choir Master Who Slew Pastor Sentenced

U.S. Denies Envoy Suggested Kishi Cancel Ike Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Monday denied reports that Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II tried to get Premier Nobusuke Kishi to call off President Eisenhower's trip to Japan.

State Department press officer Lincoln White issued the denial when asked about a report published by columnist Joseph Alsop.

Alsop said MacArthur, a fortnight before Eisenhower's Tokyo trip was finally canceled, had been sent to Kishi to suggest that the Japanese invitation be revoked.

Algeria Rebels, France Agree On Peace Talks

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — Algeria's rebel leaders agreed Monday to send a peace mission to Paris to seek an end to the six-year-old insurrection.

The French government immediately said the rebel envoys would be granted safe passage. But officials in Paris repeated an oft-stated proviso: Any discussion must "concern only a cease-fire, disposition of weapons and the fate of the fighters." After that, they said, discussion could turn to a referendum on Algeria's future.

In Algeria, troop reinforcements were brought near the major cities in event any trouble is touched off by French settlers' intransigence in their demand that Algeria remain French. At last report, there was calm.

A brief communique issued in this rebel headquarters agreed to send Premier Ferhat Abbas to Paris in the desire to "end the fighting and finally settle" the nationalist revolt. A rebel envoy would precede Abbas to arrange details of his trip.

The rebels were responding to an invitation issued by Gen. Charles de Gaulle in October 1958, and repeatedly renewed.

Thousands Cheer, Shout "Aloha Ike"

Weary President Ends Eight-Day Far East Swing

HONOLULU (AP) — A weary President Eisenhower arrived in balmy Hawaii Monday after a 5,200 mile flight from Korea to a rousing, warm welcome from residents of the 50th state.

Ending his eight-day Far Eastern tour, Eisenhower found 3,000 shirt-sleeved men and women in gay Hawaiian dress to greet him.

Tens of thousands lined his motorcade route into downtown Honolulu to cheer Eisenhower, still smiling despite the rigors of his travels.

His vacation home in this semi-tropical Pacific island resort will be the secluded Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station, where he plans to rest several days.

Japanese-Americans turned out at the airport and along the route to hail Eisenhower.

"Aloha Ike," "Welcome Ike," said banners held aloft by young Japanese boys and girls, proclaiming "The United Japan Society."

Ike Gets Lei But No Kiss

Eisenhower canceled a visit to Japan, the scheduled high point of his 23,000-mile Asian swing, because of anti-American riots by fanatic leftwing Tokyo students.

Eisenhower came to sun-drenched Hawaii after a 10-hour flight from Seoul, where hundreds of thousands of applauding, flag-waving Koreans gave him an enthusiastic farewell as he wound up his 24 hour goodwill stay.

Eisenhower was welcomed by Gov. William F. Quinn and a corps of leading state and military dignitaries.

Mrs. Quinn placed a plump, bright red carnation lei around the President's shoulders. But she omitted the traditional kiss of welcome that usually goes along with the lei.

The President and the governor reviewed an honor guard of the armed services while thousands screamed aloha.

Eisenhower told the airport crowd after mounting a red-topped platform:

"It is a signal privilege that I was to land here on this beautiful island. For me, it is the first time since it became a state.

"This has been in the making a long time."

Hawaii Grateful

The President gave his "warmest and affectionate greetings to Hawaii, where we have a true sample of men living together."

He said "men of every race, color and creed live here together in mutual satisfaction." He mentioned the establishment of the East-West Cultural Center in Hawaii, aimed at bringing together the people of Asia and the West.

Quinn told the President Hawaii is deeply honored that he chose to come to Hawaii.

"We owe you a great amount of gratitude for the support of our aspirations for statehood," he said.

The governor said the Hawaiian people were deeply grateful for the President's efforts towards making peace.

A Marine band played "Ruffles and Flourishes," "Hail to the Chief" and "Give an island touch with 'Blue Hawaii.'"

Frieda Hennock, 55, Capital Figure, Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frieda B. Hennock, whose beauty and feminine aggressiveness enlivened Washington for years, died Monday at the age of 55.

Her physician attributed death to a brain tumor. She underwent surgery last Thursday.

Miss Hennock was the only woman ever named to the Federal Communications Commission. Her years there — 1948-55 — were marked by her insistence that noncommercial, educational purposes be allotted a substantial share of television channels.

After her FCC term expired she married William H. Simons, a Washington real estate man. She had been practicing law in Washington since then.

Miss Hennock, a brown-eyed blonde, was an ardent Democrat, a New Deal supporter who worked hard to get William O'Dwyer elected mayor of New York. She was then a member of a 141-year-old New York City law firm otherwise made up of Republicans.

Sims, W. Va. Auditor Who Thrived On Rows, Dies

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Edgar B. Sims, West Virginia's blunt-spoken homespun state auditor, died Monday in a hospital here at the age of 78.

Sims' losing battle from a cerebral stroke, effects of which were complicated, came more than three months after he was admitted to Charleston Memorial Hospital on March 6. He had survived at least three other close brushes with death in the past two years due to illness.

Sims, who thrived on controversy, was involved in dispute almost to the end. Only last Tuesday the State Supreme Court ruled against him in a case involving expense statements for members of the state tax department staff.

The veteran auditor served longer in statewide public office than anyone in West Virginia history—more than 27 years. He took office in 1933 after election to his first of seven four-year terms. And he hoped to continue. Sims had won the Democratic nomination in the May 10 primary election.

Sims' bawdy attitude about approving payment of any bills or claims against the state where he felt there was the slightest legal question brought him a reputation as "watchdog of the state treasury."

His dogmatic stands on money and other matters resulted in numerous court tests, and he delighted in his many victories.

The tall, gaunt Sims also took pleasure in poking verbal barbs at dignified figures. One of the favorite targets of the tobacco-chewing auditor was Irvin Stewart, former president of West Virginia University. They were frequently involved in various controversies.

'Antony', Worse For Wear, Back In Waxworks

LONDON (AP)—Antony Armstrong-Jones—his spit and image, that is—was freed by the police Monday and taken home to the waxworks. He looked like the windup of a lost weekend. Which he was.

He had dents in his handsome head like man, some beatnik had been using it for a bongo drum. Also, the head was detached from his body. The color in his face had paled and his white tie and tails were slovenly.

As he was carried into Madame Tussaud's effigy emporium, a passing moppet yelled: "Look, Mom, no hands!"

It was true. Armstrong-Jones was as handless as the Venus de Milo.

The wax model of Princess Margaret's husband was stolen from its place beside hers during the night Friday.

A policeman found it propped up inside a telephone booth a mile away in the small hours Monday morning and thought it was a drunk. Tied around the neck was a green placard bearing the words "welcome home."

The real Armstrong-Jones and his royal bride returned from their Caribbean honeymoon a few hours after the theft.

Ex-Captain Of Batory Becomes U.S. Citizen

NEW YORK (AP)—A Polish sea captain, who was master of the liner Batory when German Communist Gerhart Eisler stowed aboard the vessel to flee the United States in 1949, today became an American citizen.

The captain, Jan Cwiklinski, 59, fled his ship in Great Britain in 1953 to escape probable espionage charges if he had returned to his home in Gdynia, Poland. The Communists believed he had too many friends in the Western world, he explained at the time.

He said his next big goal will be to try to "get my family over here from Gdynia." He referred to his wife, Bronislawa; his daughter, Jane, 24, and son, Janusz, 15.

Cwiklinski now operates an ice cream stand in Clifton, N. J.

Nixon Proposes Food Surplus Pool Under U.N.

MINOT, N.D. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Monday night the free world should turn its food surpluses over to the United Nations to feed the one billion persons who go to bed hungry each night.

This was part of a five-point program offered by Nixon in a speech here. It was his first farm speech since the congressional campaign of 1958.

The surprising part of his speech came in what he didn't say.

He shied away from the controversial price support program because he said it wouldn't be proper for him to comment on an administration bill which is still before Congress.

Nixon said he hadn't planned to present a complete farm program but that he had passed these ideas on to the Republican platform committee.

Originally Nixon said President Eisenhower had thought about calling a conference on all surplus-producing nations including the Soviet Union but this idea was dropped after the breakdown of the summit conference.

Now, Nixon said, he thinks it should be pursued without Russia. "It will serve the cause of peace and freedom," Nixon said, "by giving hungry people the food which will help provide them with the necessary energy to build independent free societies which can resist foreign domination from any quarter."

The eight-million-dollar Air Force contract underlines the Pentagon's faith in the 98-foot, 110-ton ballistic missile. It has roared 5,000 miles down the Atlantic Coast test range five times this year and has a potential range of 9,000 miles.

One of the improvements involves use of a fuel stored in the missile itself and designed for launching directly from its underground pad. At present the Titan uses a liquid fuel that has to be kept at minus 300 degrees or lower.

The new missile will be ready to fire instantly, unlike the present one which must first be lifted to the surface from its underground housing.

Another important improvement will be inclusion of an inertial guidance system. That permits the missile to operate on its own built-in computer without reliance on ground radio signals, which could be jammed by an enemy.

Woman Fined $25 In Row Over Ball

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP)—A magistrate fined Mrs. Morris Rosen $25 Monday as a result of her argument with an off-duty Washington policeman over a ball.

Mrs. Rosen, 46, accused Anthony C. Rogers of refusing to return the ball that children threw over the fence surrounding his home.

Rogers testified he looked in his yard but could not find the ball. He also told Magistrate George J. O'Hare that Mrs. Rosen directed a stream of abusive language at both himself and his wife. He complained further that she organized a picket line of children who demanded the return of the ball.

He said the picket line included Mrs. Rosen's three children and two other neighborhood youngsters. Mrs. Rosen admitted she helped her children make signs for the picket lines but, she said, she did at their request.

Man Held On Charge Of Shooting Neighbor

CAMBRIDGE (AP)—Richard P. Hubbard, 31, has been placed on $10,000 bond awaiting hearing on a charge of a shooting a neighbor.

Willard N. Saunders, 38, of Secretary, is in the Cambridge-Maryland hospital with wounds in the left side of his abdomen.

State Police said that Hubbard and Saunders started arguing Sunday at Hubbard's home in East New Market. They said Hubbard shot Saunders with a .22 caliber pistol.

Mrs. Hubbard was on the scene during the argument.

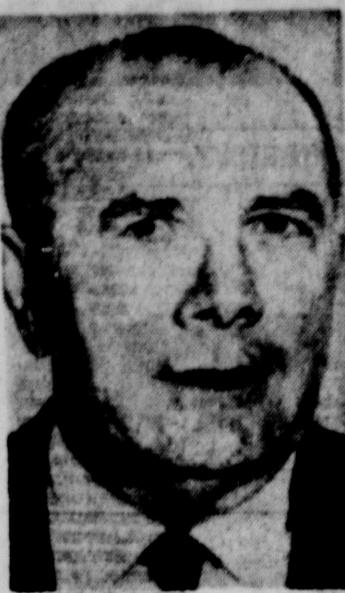

He is an investigator for the U.S. Bureau of Internal Revenue, working out of Easton. Saunders is a tile layer.

Air Traffic Jam Causes Chaos At London Port

LONDON (AP)—What everyone said would happen sooner or later in the long-distance terminal of bustling London Airport happened in full measure Monday.

Seven transatlantic airliners touched down in less than half an hour and the result was chaos.

Hundreds of perspiring travelers who had flown at jet speed across the Atlantic had to sit in coaches outside the arrival buildings. There just wasn't enough room to handle them. For hundreds it took almost as long to get from London airport to London center as it did to cross the Atlantic. There are plans to improve the situation, but still in the discussion stage.

Maryland Expected To Gain House Seat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maryland is among the few states expected to gain a seat in the House of Representatives when the 1960 census tabulations are completed.

Maryland, New Jersey and Ohio are expected to gain one seat each.

Neighboring West Virginia is among those expected to lose one seat due to a population drop in the past 10 years. And Virginia is among a few states considered fairly close to losing one seat, although it probably won't.

Lie Test Given Mother Of Slain 9-Year-Old Girl

BALTIMORE (AP)—The mother of nine-year-old Alva Jean Parris underwent a lie-detector test given Monday by police probing the killing of the girl.

Mrs. Fredonia Parris, 26, took the test during a three-hour session at the suburban Towson headquarters of Baltimore County police.

Also questioned was a small brunette in her 20s. The woman was wearing green shorts when picked up Sunday. After the quizzing at Towson, she was returned to the Essex police substation, center of the investigation.

The questioning of the brunette, whom police did not identify, and of Mrs. Parris became known after several men picked up earlier were released.

Alva Jean's body was found Wednesday in a shallow grave near her home in an apartment development just east of Baltimore. She had been missing five days after leaving home to visit an aunt residing two blocks away.

An autopsy failed to disclose the cause of death. Medical examiners said the cause might be determined by chemical tests still being made.

Mrs. Parris, an employee at an electronics plant, has been separated from her husband, who has been living in Tennessee. The couple had three other children, all younger than Alva Jean.

EAL Schedules Flights As More Pilots Return

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—About 35 Eastern Air Lines pilots called in for flight assignments Monday evening, shortly after their union ordered them to return to work while their grievances are processed "in every lawful manner."

Eastern immediately scheduled six flights for Monday night, including the first to Detroit since the pilots walked off the job at midnight, June 10.

An Eastern spokesman said the pilots' action "sounds very encouraging." He said the line

Friction between the pilots and Eastern and Pan American stems from the practice of Federal Aviation Agency inspectors occupying a cockpit seat in which the third pilot usually rides.

Retrial Of Dr. Finch, Carole Postponed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The retrial of Dr. R. Bernard Finch, 42, and his pretty ex-mistress, scheduled to begin Monday, was postponed a week to await a State Supreme Court ruling.

Carole Tregoff, 23, Dr. Finch's former receptionist and his codefendant in the murder case, has asked the court to disqualify Superior court Judge Leroy Dawson as presiding jurist on the ground he is prejudiced.

Dr. Finch and Miss Tregoff are charged with slaying the doctor's wife, Barbara, 36, at the couple's West Covina home last July 18. The first trial ended with a hung jury.

No City Council Meeting Held; Quorum Not Present

The Mayor and Council were forced to forego its regular meeting yesterday because of lack of a quorum.

When Acting Mayor G. Ray Light called the session to order only he and Street Commissioner John J. Long were present. Absent were Mayor J. Edwin Keech and Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder who are attending the Maryland Municipal League Convention in Ocean City; and Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

Three members of council must be present in order to hold a meeting.

Also absent was City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery, who is participating in the Ocean City conference; and City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson who is on vacation.

Gibson usually substitutes for Ullery when the latter is absent. Today with both elsewhere, James Twigg, chief clerk in the Water Department, was pressed into service for what was probably one of the briefest meetings on record.

Twigg called the roll and the meeting was adjourned immediately when it was found a quorum was not present.

As a result all current business is to be carried over until next Monday, unless a special meeting is called for later this week.

Find Skeleton

BLOCK ISLAND, R.I. (UPI) — Skindivers have recovered the skeleton of a crew member of the sunken Nazi submarine U-853.

Burton H. Mason of Trumbull, Conn., said the skeleton, partially clad in the remains of a leather jacket and sweater, was taken from the forward torpedo room of the sunken U-boat Sunday.

Three County Teachers Take Retirement

The retirement of three veteran teachers in the Allegany County school system was announced yesterday by Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools.

The teachers are Adele E. Malcolm, third grade instructor at West Side School since 1949; Mrs. Ruth Rice Wolford, first grade teacher at John Humbird School since 1950; and Mrs. Kathleen Footen Hoffman, who taught third grade at Beall Elementary School since 1942.

In making the announcement, Webster said the retirements point up a report presented recently by Dr. Taylor Whittier, superintendent of Montgomery County schools, in which it was stated that all Maryland counties face an increasingly acute problem in obtaining qualified teachers.

The report, made at a meeting of the Maryland State Board of Education at Frostburg State Teachers College, revealed that Allegany County led the state percentage-wise in the number of teachers who are 55 years of age and older, and thus faces the task of obtaining qualified replacements when they retire.

Miss Malcolm joined the county school system in 1945 and taught five years at Columbia Street School before being transferred to the faculty of West Side School. She has had a total of 36 years of experience in teaching, 21 of which were out-of-state.

She holds a master's degree in education, earned by attending summer school at Columbia University Teachers College.

Mrs. Wolford has a total of 31 years of teaching experience. She joined the county school system in 1928 and was a member of the faculty of Pennsylvania Avenue School for 21 years before going to John Humbird School.

Mrs. Wolford holds a bachelor degree in education, earned through special courses taken at Western Maryland College and the University of Maryland. A graduate of Towson State Teachers College, she attended Virginia Avenue and Pennsylvania Avenue schools before completing her high school studies at Allegany.

Mrs. Hoffman, who has completed 42 years in the teaching profession, attended St. Michael's Parochial School, Frostburg, before entering Frostburg State Normal School. She taught at Corriganville, Gephart and Columbia Street schools before becoming a member of the Beall School faculty in 1942.

Mrs. Hoffman took special courses at Frostburg State Teachers College, Johns Hopkins University, Pennsylvania State University and the University of Maryland during her years as a teacher.

Local Man Guilty In Fraud Case

Ralph E. Woolard, 41, of 309 Bond Street, was given a six-months suspended jail sentence yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court after being convicted of obtaining money from the Department of Unemployment Security under false pretense.

Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt suspended the jail term on condition the man make restitution of $340 at the rate of $5 per week through the State's Attorney's Office.

Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, presented the state's case and advised the court that the defendant had obtained $340 over a ten-week period while he was employed locally and earned $197.37.

Mason advised the court that the money was obtained during the period of July 26 through November 1 of 1958.

The assistant state's attorney also informed the court that on May 20 of this year, Woolard was tried in Federal Court in Baltimore on a similar charge. Mason testified that after the state benefits ran out, Woolard applied for and received federal funds under false pretense. He was given a two-year suspended jail sentence and fined $100 in Federal Court and also ordered to make restitution of $374.

New Pools Need Permit

Persons planning to build or operate public swimming pools in any of the twenty-three counties in Maryland are required to have a permit from the State Health Department, according to Robert M. Brown, Chief, Bureau of Environmental Hygiene of the State Department of Health.

The state regulations regarding public pools apply to pools operated by private clubs, motels, apartment houses, community associations, commercial pools, and any other swimming pools where a segment of the public may congregate.

The reminder was issued in order to help builders and owners avoid additional expense and unnecessary delay in completion and operation of a pool. Plans for the pool must be submitted with the application, and a permit must be received before construction is begun. Safety and health factors are considered in granting approvals.

Brown says problems occur when builders or owners fail to submit plans and apply for a permit, or when they do not build according to plans which have been approved.

When pools are built which do not conform to safety and health standards, the State Health Department is obliged to issue an order to prevent use of the pool until proper changes have been made.

HELPING HAND FOR A YOUNG LADY

The morning rush hour was in full swing as the C & P installer slowed his small panel truck at one of Baltimore's busiest intersections. He could hear the angry sound of many auto horns. Then he saw the cause.

Stalled across 4 lanes of traffic was an old car. All alone in the car was a young lady, trying frantically to start the motor. A tremendous traffic jam of cars was piling up in the blocked lanes.

Horns were honking, blood pressures were rising, as drivers too far down the street to see the cause of the tie-up tried to hurry its untangling with a blast of their horns.

The C & P truck pulled to a stop. The driver jumped out, walked over to the stalled car, and spoke to the young lady. Then he pushed the car and the young driver to the far curb. You could almost hear the sigh of relief from the young lady, and the stalled motorists, as traffic began to move again.

To the young man from C & P, this was all part of a day's work. (We know this because one of you readers took the time to write and tell us about his act of courtesy.) We at C & P believe courtesy makes our day and your day more pleasant. Lending a helping hand to others, on or off the job, is a courteous service we're glad to extend.

West Virginia Will Overhaul Civil Procedure

Editor's Note: On July 1 the rules covering civil court procedures in West Virginia will be changed radically. This is the first of three dispatches outlining the changes and their meaning to the public.

By J. RICHARD TOREN United Press International

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — Rules governing the handling of cases in West Virginia civil courts will be overhauled for the first time in state history effective July 1.

Gone in the streamlining and simplifying process will be much of the legal paraphernalia and jargon that has made court proceedings under the old Common Law rules a jumble of technicalities.

Among other changes quickly noticeable to the layman — at least to the layman who gets sued — will be a shortening of the time in which he must answer a law suit.

A person notified officially that he has been sued will have only 20 days to file an answer through his lawyer, or face the possibility of a default judgment. Under present rules he has a minimum of about 30 days, often longer.

More important will be speedier and more substantial justice through increased attention to the merits of the case, rather than the way they are handled.

Substance, Not Form

The new rules will make lawyers "pay more attention to substance, not form," said one former president of the State Bar. "We've always had to pay too much attention to form because we could have our cases kicked out of court if we didn't."

Quicker justice also will mean better justice, under the old maxim that "Justice delayed is justice denied."

The changes are all procedural, applying to the way cases are handled, not to the remedies available to litigants. And they apply only to civil cases, not to proceedings under criminal law.

The Common Law rules to be scrapped date back in some cases to the 11th Century in England, although they have been modified by both usage and statute.

The distinction between "law" and "equity," important under the present rules, will be abolished. Scrapped along with it will be a multitude of different forms of action, most of them "Greek" to the layman — like detinue (to recover damages for breach of contract).

Under the new rules there will be no "forms" of action, only a single form to be known as a "civil suit."

On the surface, this may appear to be important only to lawyers and judges. But it will greatly simplify court procedures and put more emphasis on the merits of the case rather than on a lawyer's skill in handling it.

Facts Laid Bare

Even more important are new rules of "discovery." They will allow attorneys for both parties to require the other side to provide information — in advance of the trial — in regard to the case through depositions, written interrogatories and production of documents and other physical evidence.

Trial of civil suits is an attempt to get the complete facts, and sponsors of the new rules say this change would accomplish that purpose. Every lawyer would be able to come to trial almost as familiar with his opponent's case as with his own.

In the words of Thomas B. Jackson, chairman of the State Bar's Committee on Civil Rules: "Trial by ambush will be abolished. Cases will be decided on their merits, in the interest of justice; not, as has all too frequently occurred, on the basis of the relative ability of counsel respecting technicalities."

Use of pre-trial conferences between opposing attorneys and the judge will be greatly expanded. The result will be to narrow the issues that must be explored during the trial, and to increase the proportion of out-of-court settlements.

Experience in federal courts where similar rules are in effect shows that about 60 per cent of suits are settled through pre-trial conferences without going to trial.

West Virginia law since 1945 has permitted pre-trial conferences, but they have not been used extensively except in a few large counties. There has also been a limited use of discovery in equity cases. Both will be greatly expanded when the new rules take effect.

The old English Common Law is used more extensively in West Virginia than in any of the other states, most of which have already gone in line with the federal rules.

The State Bar's Board of Governors said in proposing the new rules that their major feature is simplicity and clarity, and that they would "constitute a definite step forward in the administration of justice."

"In a changing and dynamic world, the procedures for adjudicating civil controversies must be kept abreast of progress in other fields, lest the law itself decline in the esteem of our people," the Board said.

West Virginia Will Overhaul Civil Procedure

Editor's Note: On July 1 the rules covering civil court procedures in West Virginia will be changed radically. This is the first of three dispatches outlining the changes and their meaning to the public.

By J. RICHARD TOREN United Press International

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — Rules governing the handling of cases in West Virginia civil courts will be overhauled for the first time in state history effective July 1.

Gone in the streamlining and simplifying process will be much of the legal paraphernalia and jargon that has made court proceedings under the old Common Law rules a jumble of technicalities.

Among other changes quickly noticeable to the layman — at least to the layman who gets sued — will be a shortening of the time in which he must answer a law suit.

A person notified officially that he has been sued will have only 20 days to file an answer through his lawyer, or face the possibility of a default judgment. Under present rules he has a minimum of about 30 days, often longer.

More important will be speedier and more substantial justice through increased attention to the merits of the case, rather than the way they are handled.

Substance, Not Form

The new rules will make lawyers "pay more attention to substance, not form," said one former president of the State Bar. "We've always had to pay too much attention to form because we could have our cases kicked out of court if we didn't."

Quicker justice also will mean better justice, under the old maxim that "Justice delayed is Justice denied."

The changes are all procedural, applying to the way cases are handled, not to the remedies available to litigants. And they apply only to civil cases, not to proceedings under criminal law.

The Common Law rules to be scrapped date back in some cases to the 11th Century in England, although they have been modified by both usage and statute.

The distinction between "law" and "equity," important under the present rules, will be abolished. Scrapped along with it will be a multitude of different forms of action, most of them "Greek" to the layman — like detinue (to recover damages for breach of contract).

Under the new rules there will be no "forms" of action, only a single form to be known as a civil suit.

On the surface, this may appear to be important only to lawyers and judges. But it will greatly simplify court procedures and put more emphasis on the merits of the case rather than on a lawyer's skill in handling it.

Facts Laid Bare

Even more important are new rules of "discovery." They will allow attorneys for both parties to require the other side to provide information — in advance of the trial — in regard to the case through depositions, written interrogatories and production of documents and other physical evidence.

Trial of civil suits is an attempt to get the complete facts, and sponsors of the new rules say this change would accomplish that purpose. Every lawyer would be able to come to trial almost as familiar with his opponent's case as with his own.

In the words of Thomas B. Jackson, chairman of the State Bar's Committee on Civil Rules: "Trial by ambush will be abolished. Cases will be decided on their merits, in the interest of justice; not, as has all too frequently occurred, on the basis of the relative ability of counsel respecting technicalities."

Use of pre-trial conferences between opposing attorneys and the judge will be greatly expanded. The result will be to narrow the issues that must be explored during the trial, and to increase the proportion of out-of-court settlements.

Experience in federal courts where similar rules are in effect shows that about 60 per cent of suits are settled through pre-trial conferences without going to trial.

West Virginia law since 1945 has permitted pre-trial conferences, but they have not been used extensively except in a few large counties. There has also been a limited use of discovery in equity cases. Both will be greatly expanded when the new rules take effect.

The old English Common Law is used more extensively in West Virginia than in any of the other states, most of which have already gone in line with the federal rules.

The State Bar's Board of Governors said in proposing the new rules that their major feature is simplicity and clarity, and that they would "constitute a definite step forward in the administration of justice."

"In a changing and dynamic world, the procedures for adjudicating civil controversies must be kept abreast of progress in other fields, lest the law itself decline in the esteem of our people," the Board said.

Four Election Disputes To Be Heard In Court

Romney Woman's Victory At Stake

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Arguments on four disputes arising from apparent results of the May 10 West Virginia primary are scheduled to be argued in the State Supreme Court Tuesday.

The cases involve in effect, the election of a delegate to the Democratic national convention from the 2nd Congressional District; nomination of a state senator in the 1st District and whether a deputy sheriff can succeed his boss. Arguments may last most of the day.

Minter L. Wilson of Morgantown petitioned the court to throw out ballots cast in Barbour County in the 2nd District delegate race because his name was left off the ballots used by voters. He maintains if they are not counted he would be the second highest vote getter and entitled to a seat.

On the basis of returns from the entire District Mrs. Virginia Williams of Romney is the winner of the seat.

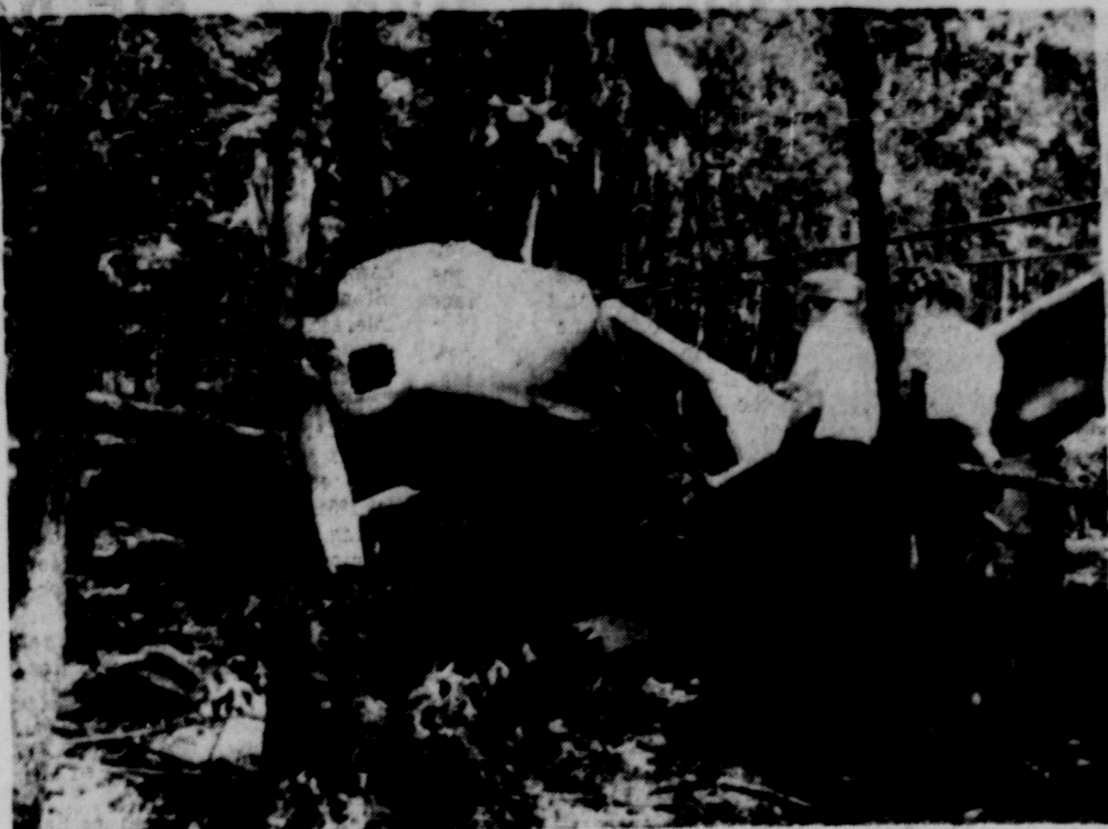

Logan Prosecutor Claude Joyce asked the court to discount 18 challenged ballots in Logan County. If such were done, he maintains, he would be the Democratic nominee for circuit judge rather than incumbent C.C. Chambers.

State Sen. Herbert (D-Brooke) has asked the high court to discount ballots used in a Weirton Heights precinct which had "sample" marked at the top of them. If his petition is upheld, he claims he would be winner of the Democratic nomination rather than former Del. William Tompos of Weirton.

Two Upshur County residents — Moneth W. Zickfoos and Roy L. Warner — have contested the nomination of Republican Eugene C. Suder in the county sheriff's race. They claim Suder served as a deputy under Sheriff Harley V. Tenney and is not eligible to be elected to the post.

Four Election Disputes To Be Heard In Court

Romney Woman's Victory At Stake

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — Arguments on four disputes arising from apparent results of the May 10 West Virginia primary are scheduled to be argued in the State Supreme Court Tuesday.

The cases involve in effect, the election of a delegate to the Democratic national convention from the 2nd Congressional District; nomination of a state senator in the 1st District and whether a deputy sheriff can succeed his boss. Arguments may last most of the day.

Minter L. Wilson of Morgantown petitioned the court to throw out ballots cast in Barbour County in the 2nd District delegate race because his name was left off the ballots used by voters. He maintains if they are not counted he would be the second highest vote getter and entitled to a seat.

On the basis of returns from the entire District Mrs. Virginia Williams of Romney is the winner of the seat.

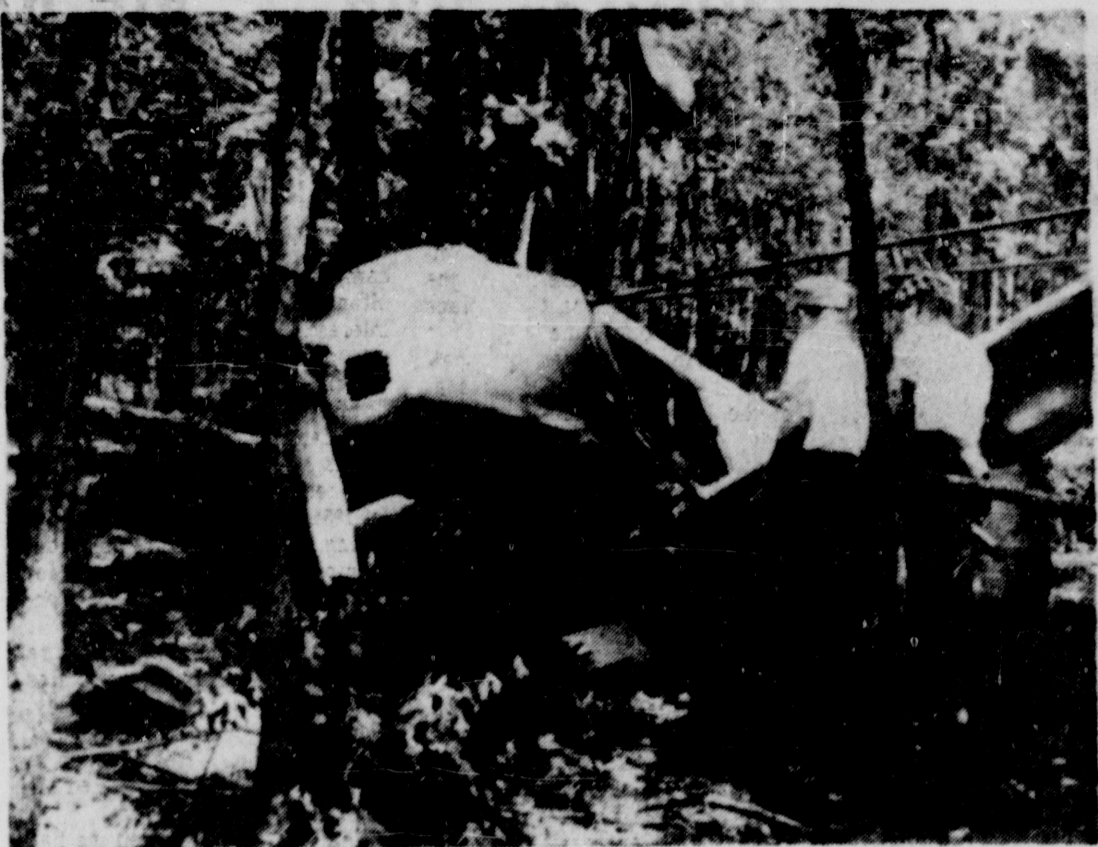

Logan Prosecutor Claude Joyce asked the court to discount 18 challenged ballots in Logan County. If such were done, he maintains, he would be the Democratic nominee for circuit judge rather than incumbent C.C. Chambers.

State Sen. Herbert (D-Brooke) has asked the high court to discount ballots used in a Weirton Heights precinct which had "sample" marked at the top of them. If his petition is upheld, he claims he would be winner of the Democratic nomination rather than former Del. William Tompos of Weirton.

Two Upshur County residents — Moneth W. Zickefoos and Roy L. Warner — have contested the nomination of Republican Eugene C. Suder in the county sheriff's race. They claim Suder served as a deputy under Sheriff Harley V. Tenney and is not eligible to be elected to the post.

On Keeping The Campaign Clean

"For twenty long years," Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) told the Senate some five years ago, "the Democratic Party has told lies about Herbert Hoover. All that we have been trying to do is to tell the truth about Harry Truman."

The quotation illustrates the difficulty of effecting reform of political campaigns by voluntary efforts or pledges. What one party calls a smear is to another merely justifiable criticism.

The latest appeal for restraint comes from Sidney Hillenbrand, head of District 1 of B'nai B'rith. Hillenbrand on June 6 offered these ground rules for the election:

You don't ask the views of one candidate on controversial issues without the views of all. Questions on the issue of separation of church and state are valid, but they are not valid for Catholic candidates alone.

You avoid strictly the injection of prejudice by overt acts and at the same time reject the hate-monger who covertly trades upon unspoken fears and hidden bias.

The potentials of a rough Presidential campaign in 1960 are already self-evident. Already Republicans and Democrats — and Democrats among themselves — have swapped charges of improper campaign spending.

Every campaign sees attempts at voluntary reform. In 1954, for example, much was made of a Fair Campaign Practices Code drawn up for the Congressional campaign by a bipartisan citizens' organization. Both national chairmen signed with alacrity, but there was no noticeable effect on the tone of the campaign.

Efforts at reform by law have been similarly discouraging. Remarkably, on the state level, dirty as the campaigns can get, less effort is made at appealing to religious bias. If reform at the top is to come, it may have to percolate from below.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Cuban Menace

Cuba has put itself, under Fidel Castro, in the position of menacing the United States on a much greater scale than is to be measured by the size and significance of the island. The realistic peril to the United States is that when Khrushchev visits Cuba, a mutual security pact will be agreed upon between Cuba and Soviet Russia. That, in effect, puts Soviet Russia on our door-step and would mean that Cuba could become part of the Soviet Union.

Under such a pact, Russia could establish submarine bases, military airfields and rocket pads in Cuba. This may influence other nations in Latin America.

Of course, under the Monroe Doctrine and the Platt Amendments that would have been impossible. The United States would have acted immediately to protect this country from such a disaster. We revoked these fundamentals of American policy, but we are not left helpless.

The Organization of American States (OAS) has the authority to move into Cuba to save that country from Communism. The Caracas 1954 Declaration, in connection with Article 6 of the Rio Pact, reads as follows:

"... the domination or the control of the political institutions of any American State by the international Communist movement extending to this hemisphere a political system of an extra-continental Power would constitute a threat to the sovereignty and political independence of the American States, endangering the peace of America, and would call for consultation and appropriate action in accordance with existing treaties." The resolution recommended that each Government should take measures to force disclosure of the identity, activities, and sources of funds of those who were spreading propaganda for international Communism or acting as its agent, and that all Governments should exchange information to strengthen the campaign against Communism. The resolution ended with the statement that it was "designed to protect and not to impair the inalienable right of each American State freely to choose its own form of Government and economic system and to live its own social and cultural life."

In a word, the OAS can move to prevent the infiltration of any Latin American country by Communism. It is believed by some Latin American experts that if a free, internationally protected election were held in Cuba today, Castro could not be elected, particularly if the Cubans who have left that country during the Castro regime, returned to it to vote. Fidel Castro's popularity is on the wane and Khrushchev is coming to Cuba to bolster it.

There is another factor in this situation. Russia has long been annoyed that the United States and Turkey and Iran have mutual security pacts. As a matter of fact, Turkey and Iran are old allies of ours and have withstood Soviet efforts to infiltrate and to conquer them. Soviet Russia managed to take Iraq out of this group of nations, but Turkey and Iran have stood firm.

It could be — and this is speculative but quite within the range of possibility — that Soviet Russia is engaging upon this Cuban gambit with the object of bringing pressure upon the United States to relinquish its relationship with Turkey and Iran. Instead of the United States containing Soviet Russia according to the Truman Doctrine, Soviet Russia is now containing the United States.

This is a further extension of the Stalinist policy which Khrushchev has consistently opposed. From all that Khrushchev said and did prior to the Paris Summit Fiasco, it is clear that he believed in peaceful co-existence as a successful device for establishing Marxism in the Western world. The evidence is that whereas Stalin was successful in Eastern Europe and in China, Khrushchev was making enormous and ominous progress in Western Europe and the United States. He might have succeeded in lulling us into an easy apathy toward Soviet Russia and even Red China. But he can never change his position again, for we cannot trust him.

The Stalinists have regarded Khrushchev's methods as anti-Marxist-Leninist and this opposition to him has apparently prevailed. If by July 13, when the Communist Party meets in Moscow, Khrushchev cannot overcome this Stalinist opposition, it must be expected that the next serious step against the United States will be in Cuba and it will come with Khrushchev's visit to that country.

The Organization of American States has the responsibility of immediate action not to wait until it is too late and nothing can be done short of a general war. If the OAS is incapable of performing in this obvious crisis, then the United States ought to go it alone. We cannot risk our security by remaining subservient to unworkable pacts.

Strong People Are Never Held In Contempt

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON.

More than a fortnight before the final catastrophe in Tokyo, U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur was sent to Prime Minister Kishi, to suggest that the Japanese government dis-invite President Eisenhower.

Kishi replied with consternation that if he responded to this American initiative by requesting the President not to visit Japan after all, his government would fall as a result. He added that the new U.S. Japanese security treaty would fall with the government. He further pointed out that another probable casualty would be the parliamentary system in Japan. On this basis, the President adhered to his plan to visit Tokyo.

In the end, however, as everyone knows, the disorders in Tokyo got too far out of hand. Ambassador MacArthur was again instructed to invite the President's dis-invitation. This time, Kishi yielded.

These background facts have several important implications, none of them agreeable. They show, for instance, that the American government had at least as big a role in the dis-invitation as the Japanese government. Everyone must be glad, of course, that the President did not run the kind of risk he would certainly have run by refusing to change his plan. Yet there is something contrived, something overly flavored with the arts of Madison Avenue, in the Hagerty-style presentation of the change of plan as wholly Japanese in origin.

Above all, moreover, the background facts of the Japanese dis-invitation show the underlying fraudulence of the Hagerty-style presentation of all these foreign journeys for which President Eisenhower had acquired such a taste. Before the Japanese defeat. The same scene has been repeated in Europe, in India, and in South America. The cheering millions, the smiling President, the trumpeted assurances of the White House public relations staff that "like has won new friends for us"—the features are all familiar.

The President himself, apparently, believed these features of his foreign journeys had real meaning. But quite another reality has now been revealed by the ugly events in Tokyo. The truth is that in too many of the countries the President has visited, he got his glittering welcome by courtesy of Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev.

It is now clear, for instance, that the happy contrast between President Eisenhower's South American progress and the comparable trip of Vice President

Nixon was almost wholly owed to Khrushchev. The magic that made the great difference between cheers and yells of hatred was not Eisenhower's magic. The magic was in fact the discipline of the South American Communist parties, which were ordered to act "in the spirit of Camp David" because Khrushchev was then still hoping to get his way about Berlin at the summit conference.

The realistic policy-makers at the State Department in effect recognized these facts, as soon as the explosion at the summit caused a change in the Kremlin's orders to the Japanese Communists. This was the reason why a Japanese dis-invitation was first invited by Ambassador MacArthur more than a fortnight ago. The final dis-

INSTITUTES OF HEALTH — The most exclusive hospital in the United States is operated by the government in Washington. It is the huge structure of the National Institutes of Health in nearby Bethesda, Md.

Each patient receives half the attention of a doctor, enjoys six hours of nurse care daily, and rests in the assurance that everything known to science and the most modern equipment is being utilized to effect a cure. And there is no charge.

It has more than 12 applicants for each of its 516 beds at any one time. Thousands more look to work being done there to help them indirectly in curing or alleviating their illnesses.

The NIH is the U. S. Public Health Service's centralized research establishment. It accepts only patients whose illnesses are among the country's principal killers or cripples — cancer, heart ailments, arthritis, etc.—not the rare one-in-a-million cases. Only those patients are admitted whose illnesses will help a specific research program.

Admittance is by a doctor's recommendation. He must supply the complete medical history of the patient, which in turn is combed by a panel of experts to determine if the patient will further a research program.

Never Try Mixing Electricity With Water

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A widely known Chicagoan was electrocuted when he used his electric shaver while soaking in a bath tub. A high school girl met the same fate when she turned on her radio while taking a bath. Similar bathroom mishaps have occurred with electric heaters, light switches, and ultra-violet lamps.

Those who tinker with electricity when bathing are risking their life. Water is an excellent conductor and currents as low as 25 volts may be dangerous; 110 volts may be fatal if the skin is moist and extensive contact is made. In such instances the current passes through the heart in sufficient quantity to jar the ventricles.

A 1,000-volt high tension current might be less hazardous when touched momentarily with a dry hand than 110 volts grasped by a person with a wet hand who is sitting in water attached to a drain that is well grounded.

An electric shock under other circumstances may be less bizarre. Whenever a live wire has been touched, first aid is important. The life of the victim may be saved by prompt action on the part of a bystander or fellow employee. The first step is to remove the individual from contact with the current — without endangering yourself. A rope, leather belt, or dry stick may be utilized if the switch cannot be turned off.

If the victim is not breathing, artificial respiration should be used, even though he appears to be dead. An electric shock paralyzes the respiratory center in the brain, causing cessation of breathing. This is temporary, provided the heart is not affected. The outcome is not good if the heart is involved and the ventricles are fibrillating instead of contracting.

Rest and quiet helps those who are less seriously shocked. It takes time to recuperate from these near misses. In addition, severe and painful burns may be suffered during the mishap.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

North Dakota Senate Race Will Be Curtain-Raiser For Fall Election

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Now that the state of Maine votes with the rest of the nation, the most important curtain-raiser to the presidential elections takes place in North Dakota June 28.

Two top candidates are battling it out for the Senate seat of the late "Wild Bill" Langer—Gov. John Davis, Republican, and Congressman Quentin Burdick, Democrat, whose father spent many years in Congress as a liberal Republican who usually voted with the Democrats. Young Burdick is now officially and formally a Democrat and a live-wire member of the House of Representatives.

The battle is important because it will test the strength of the anti-Benson vote in the farm belt which usually is Republican. North Dakota hasn't sent a Democratic Senator to Washington for a long time, and GOP leaders are determined not to let it break this precedent.

That's why Gov. Nelson Rockefeller took the long trip to the northwest to campaign for Gov. Davis. It's also why the Farm Bureau, unflinching backer of Secretary Benson, has been distributing literature against Burdick. The literature makes a big show of listing Burdick as co-author of the Poage bill for stabilizing wheat production, though actually the bill is sponsored by Rep. W. R. Poage of Texas.

Finally, the importance of the North Dakota race is why Vice President Nixon has also been campaigning in the state. Simultaneous with his arrival, an interesting piece of literature was distributed to North Dakota voters. It was captioned "Quentin Burdick And His Communist Associates."

This was strongly reminiscent of another senatorial campaign in 1954 when Nixon toured Wyoming, Montana and Colorado, stumping against Senators O'Mahoney and Murray; and Congressman John Carroll.

At that time similar literature appeared in these three states reading: "Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Foreign Agent 783," "Senator Murray And The Red Weapon in Congress," and "How Red Is John Carroll?"

That was in 1954 when we had the old Nixon. This is 1960 and we have the new Nixon, but the campaign tactics appear just the same.

Erring Ambassador
There's one thing that stands out clearly in the humiliation of Tokyo. Douglas MacArthur II ought to be fired as Ambassador to Japan.

Anyone who would let the President of the United States and the American people be represented in the humiliation of being snubbed and unwanted by the people of Japan is not qualified to hold that position. The job of ambassadors is to avoid mistakes of this kind.

When I was in Japan last winter it was obvious that there was deep-rooted Japanese sentiment against the new security treaty. I am not an ambassador and haven't lived for several years in Japan. But if a newspaperman in a few short days can detect this underlying opposition, certainly an ambassador of some years service with a large staff of observers should have warned the State Department and the White House what was in store for the President.

When there is already latent opposition to a treaty, that opposition becomes intensified and dangerous when the head of the state which is a party to the treaty pays a visit.

Ambassador MacArthur had an excellent excuse to call off the President's Far Eastern trip immediately after the summit conference which didn't summit. Khrushchev had then withdrawn his invitation to visit Russia and since the Far Eastern trip was to be en route home from Moscow the entire tour could have been canceled.

A skilled diplomat should have known that the loss of prestige we suffered in Paris was bound to result in more riots in Tokyo, that the end of the Camp David spirit was sure to unleash Communist agitators hitherto held in check by Khrushchev. For the big welcome given Ike when he returned from Paris may have enthused Sam Rayburn and the American people, but it cut no ice in the rest of the world.

State Department officials say MacArthur did not warn of this. They in turn relied on MacArthur. MacArthur, who has some of the qualities of his uncle, the general, is reported to have wanted the glory of a presidential trip.

Thus the President and the country he represents were subjected to two humiliating snubs in the period of 30 days.

Behind Nixon-Rockefeller

Behind the Nixon-Rockefeller rivalry is an even sharper rivalry between two former editors of Time magazine — Emmet Hughes, ex-chief of Time's foreign correspondents, and Jim Shepley, chief of Time's domestic correspondents.

Hughes, who had been Eisenhower's No. 1 speech-writer, got fed up with our lagging defenses and diplomatic blundering. He was also bitterly critical of Vice President Nixon, and worked behind the scenes to build up Rockefeller for the Republican nomination.

Hughes' efforts, of course, were known to Shepley, a Nixon admirer, who kept the Vice President informed on what Hughes and Rockefeller were planning. Finally Hughes quit Time magazine to work for Rockefeller. Shepley then took a leave of absence to work for Nixon.

It was Hughes who wrote Rockefeller's statement challenging Nixon and it was Shepley who wrote Nixon's reply challenging Rockefeller.

Profits And Subsidies

NEW YORK — In the overhaul of the airline map — something which must come about — the CAB will have to decide on what is a trunk line and what is a feeder line.

Under the confused, and at times conflicting, thinking of that agency with life and death power over one of the country's most vital industries, feeder lines have been put partially into trunk line operations and trunk lines have been kept in feeder line service.

There is room for both kinds of operation, but not for an intermingling.

The CAB — under political pressures — has forced the trunk lines to continue serving small, out-of-the-way stations when this service could be better and, maybe, profitably served by a small feeder line. Monopoly service on such routes is justified, particularly when the CAB is handing out subsidies for it. Also, the CAB has the final say on fares.

Capital is the present victim of this mistaken CAB policy. The sheriff is breathing down the nation's No. 5 carrier's neck in a large measure because of CAB insistence that Capital continue to serve a "Tobacco Road" route in the south, certain small towns in Pennsylvania and New York and the Michigan peninsula.

The CAB, to the detriment of the whole industry, has to date insisted on expanding multiple service, even though there was no economic justification for this. It has done this on the feeder stations, as well as on the trunk lines.

Mergers will partly correct this uneconomic CAB policy — provided the Washington Bureau doesn't take forever and a day to reach decisions on air line combinations. It has taken four years on a general fare increase and two more — with no decision yet — on elimination or uneconomic stations.

Here's how the CAB has multiplied service between some of the major cities:

New York, to Chicago there are five lines on the route, compared to three five years ago. The number of air passenger seats now available between the two cities is 8,000 — the equivalent of 40 Twentieth Century Limiteds.

New York to Washington, nine carriers where there were only three in 1955. Available air passenger seats between the two cities number 11,000.

New York to Boston is now served by six carriers against three five years ago. There are more than 7,500 available air passenger seats.

New York to Miami has three carriers where there used to be two. Available seats are 6,200.

New York to Pittsburgh, four carriers serve where two formerly did the job.

New York to St. Louis, three against one formerly.

New York to Detroit, five air lines against three in 1955.

New York to San Francisco, three lines against two in 1955. There are more than 2,000 seats available daily.

Chicago to Los Angeles, four line against three in 1955, with 4,200 available seats daily.

Chicago to Minneapolis, four lines against one in 1955, with more than 3,000 seats available daily.

The list is longer, but the above tells the overall story. It explains why the air line industry, enjoying its greatest business, is having a tough time profitwise. The profit margin on revenues was only 3.3 per cent for the air lines, against 7.6 per cent for the railroads and 15 per cent for the regulated utility industry.

During the shooting of a romantic interlude at a Cairo studio, reports Variety, the hero was called upon to slap the heroine on the cheek. When the director surveyed the damage done to his heroine—in private life as well as public—he would appear — he socked the hero with a chair and fractured his skull.

On Keeping The Campaign Clean

"For twenty long years," Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) told the Senate some five years ago, "the Democratic Party has told lies about Herbert Hoover. All that we have been trying to do is to tell the truth about Harry Truman." The quotation illustrates the difficulty of effecting reform of political campaigns by voluntary efforts or pledges. What one party calls a smear is to another merely justifiable criticism.

The latest appeal for restraint comes from Sidney Hillenbrand, head of District 1 of B'nai B'rith. Hillenbrand on June 6 offered these ground rules for the election:

You don't ask the views of one candidate on controversial issues without the views of all. Questions on the issue of separation of church and state are valid, but they are not valid for Catholic candidates alone.

You avoid strictly the injection of prejudice by overt acts and at the same time reject the hate monger who covertly trades upon unspoken fears and hidden bias.

The potentials of a rough Presidential campaign in 1960 are already self-evident. Already Republicans and Democrats — and Democrats among themselves — have swapped charges of improper campaign spending.

Every campaign sees attempts at voluntary reform. In 1954, for example, much was made of a Fair Campaign Practices Code drawn up for the Congressional campaign by a bipartisan citizens' organization. Both national chairmen signed with alacrity, but there was no noticeable effect on the tone of the campaign.

Efforts at reform by law have been similarly discouraging. Remarkably, on the state level, dirty as the campaigns can get, less effort is made at appealing to religious bias. If reform at the top is to come, it may have to percolate from below.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Cuban Menace

Cuba has put itself, under Fidel Castro, in the position of menacing the United States on a much greater scale than is to be measured by the size and significance of the island. The realistic peril to the United States is that when Khrushchev visits Cuba, a mutual security pact will be agreed upon between Cuba and Soviet Russia. That, in effect, puts Soviet Russia on our door-step and would mean that Cuba would become part of the Soviet Universal State. Under such a pact, Russia could establish submarine bases, military airfields and rocket pads in Cuba. This may influence other nations in Latin America.

Of course, under the Monroe Doctrine and the Platt Amendments that would have been impossible. The United States would have acted immediately to protect this country from such a disaster. We revoked these fundamentals of American policy, but we are not left helpless.

The Organization of American States (OAS) has the authority to move into Cuba to save that country from Communism. The Caracas 1954 Declaration, in connection with Article 6 of the Rio Pact, reads as follows:

"... the domination or the control of the political institutions of any American State by the international Communist movement extending to this hemisphere a political system of an extra-continental Power would constitute a threat to the sovereignty and political independence of the American States, endangering the peace of America, and would call for consultation and appropriate action in accordance with existing treaties." The resolution recommended that each Government should take measures to force disclosure of the identity, activities, and sources of funds of those who were spreading propaganda for international Communism or acting as its agent, and that all Governments should exchange information to strengthen the campaign against Communism. The resolution ended with the statement that it was "designed to protect and not to impair the inalienable right of each American State freely to choose its own form of Government and economic system and to live its own social and cultural life."

In a word, the OAS can move to prevent the infiltration of any Latin American country by Communism. It is believed by some Latin American experts that if a free, internationally protected election were held in Cuba today, Castro could not be elected, particularly if the Cubans who have left that country during the Castro regime, returned to it to vote. Fidel Castro's popularity is on the wane and Khrushchev is coming to Cuba to bolster it.

There is another factor in this situation. Russia has long been annoyed that the United States and Turkey and Iran have mutual security pacts. As a matter of fact, Turkey and Iran are old allies of ours and have withstood Soviet efforts to infiltrate and to conquer them. Soviet Russia managed to take Iraq out of this group of nations, but Turkey and Iran have stood firm. It could be — and this is speculative but quite within the range of possibility — that Soviet Russia is engaging upon this Cuban gambit with the object of bringing pressure upon the United States to relinquish its relationship with Turkey and Iran. Instead of the United States containing Soviet Russia according to the Truman Doctrine, Soviet Russia is now containing the United States.

This is a further extension of the Stalinist policy which Khrushchev has consistently opposed. From all that Khrushchev said and did prior to the Paris Summit Fiasco, it is clear that he believed in peaceful co-existence as a successful device for establishing Marxism in the Western world. The evidence is that whereas Stalin was successful in Eastern Europe and in China, Khrushchev was making enormous and ominous progress in Western Europe and the United States. He might have succeeded in lulling us into an easy apathy toward Soviet Russia and even Red China. But he can never change his position again, for we cannot trust him.

The Stalinists have regarded Khrushchev's methods as anti-Marxist-Leninist and this opposition to him has apparently prevailed. If by July 13, when the Communist Party meets in Moscow, Khrushchev cannot overcome this Stalinist opposition, it must be expected that the next serious step against the United States will be in Cuba and it will come with Khrushchev's visit to that country.

The Organization of American States has the responsibility of immediate action not to wait until it is too late and nothing can be done short of a general war. If the OAS is incapable of performing in this obvious crisis, then the United States ought to go it alone. We cannot risk our security by remaining subservient to unworkable pacts.

Strong People Are Never Held In Contempt

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON. More than a fortnight before the final catastrophe in Tokyo, U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur was sent to Prime Minister Kishi, to suggest that the Japanese government disinvite President Eisenhower.

Kishi replied with consternation that if he responded to this American initiative by requesting the President not to visit Japan after all, his government would fall as a result. He added that the new U.S. Japanese security treaty would fall with the government. He further pointed out that another probable casualty would be the parliamentary system in Japan. On this basis, the President adhered to his plan to visit Tokyo.

In the end, however, as everyone alas knows, the disorders in Tokyo got too far out of hand. Ambassador MacArthur was again instructed to invite the President's disinvitation. This time, Kishi yielded.

These background facts have several important implications, none of them agreeable. They show, for instance, that the American government had at least as big a role in the disinvitation as the Japanese government. Everyone must be glad, of course, that the President did not run the kind of risk he would certainly have run by refusing to change his plan. Yet there is something contrived, something overly flavored with the arts of Madison Avenue, in the Hagerty-style presentation of the change of plan as wholly Japanese in origin.

Above all, moreover, the background facts of the Japanese disinvitation show the underlying fraudulence of the Hagerty-style presentation of all these foreign journeys for which President Eisenhower had acquired such a taste. Before the Japanese defeat. The same scene has been repeated in Europe, in India, and in South America. The cheering millions, the smiling President, the trumpeted assurances of the White House public relations staff that "Ike has won new friends for us"—the features are all familiar.

The President himself, apparently, believed these features of his foreign journeys had real meaning. But quite another reality has now been revealed by the ugly events in Tokyo. The truth is that in too many of the countries the President has visited, he got his glittering welcome by courtesy of Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev.

It is now clear, for instance, that the happy contrast between President Eisenhower's South American progress and the comparable trip of Vice President

Nixon was almost wholly owed to Khrushchev. The magic that made the great difference between cheers and yells of hatred was not Eisenhower's magic. The magic was in fact the discipline of the South American Communist parties, which were ordered to act "in the spirit of Camp David" because Khrushchev was then still hoping to get his way about Berlin at the summit conference.

The realistic policy-makers at the State Department in effect recognized these facts, as soon as the explosion at the summit caused a change in the Kremlin's orders to the Japanese Communists. This was the reason why a Japanese disinvitation was first invited by Ambassador MacArthur more than a fortnight ago. The final dis-

INSTITUTES OF HEALTH — The most exclusive hospital in the United States is operated by the government in Washington. It is the huge structure of the National Institutes of Health in nearby Bethesda, Md.

Each patient receives half the attention of a doctor, enjoys six hours of nurse care daily, and rests in the assurance that everything known to science and the most modern equipment is being utilized to effect a cure. And there is no charge.

It has more than 12 applicants for each of its 516 beds at any one time. Thousands more look to work being done there to help them indirectly in curing or alleviating their illnesses.

The NIH is the U. S. Public Health Service's centralized research establishment. It accepts only patients whose illnesses are among the country's principal killers or cripples — cancer, heart ailments, arthritis, etc.—not the rare one-in-a-million cases. Only those patients are admitted whose illnesses will help a specific research program.

Admittance is by a doctor's recommendation. He must supply the complete medical history of the patient, which in turn is combed by a panel of experts to determine if the patient will further a research program.

Never Try Mixing Electricity With Water

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A widely known Chicagoan was electrocuted when he used his electric shaver while soaking in a bath tub. A high school girl met the same fate when she turned on her radio while taking a bath. Similar bathroom mishaps have occurred with electric heaters, light switches, and ultra-violet lamps.

Those who tinker with electricity when bathing are risking their life. Water is an excellent conductor and currents as low as 25 volts may be dangerous; 110 volts may be fatal if the skin is moist and extensive contact is made. In such instances the current passes through the heart in sufficient quantity to jar the ventricles.

A 1,000-volt high tension current might be less hazardous when touched momentarily with a dry hand than 110 volts grasped by a person with a wet hand who is sitting in water attached to a drain that is well grounded.

An electric shock under other circumstances may be less bizarre. Whenever a live wire has been touched, first aid is important. The life of the victim may be saved by prompt action on the part of a bystander or fellow employee. The first step is to remove the individual from contact with the current — without endangering yourself. A rope, leather belt, or dry stick may be utilized if the switch cannot be turned off.

If the victim is not breathing, artificial respiration should be used, even though he appears to be dead. An electric shock paralyzes the respiratory center in the brain, causing cessation of breathing. This is temporary, provided the heart is not affected. The outcome is not good if the heart is involved and the ventricles are fibrillating instead of contracting.

Rest and quiet helps those who are less seriously shocked. It takes time to recuperate from these near misses. In addition, severe and painful burns may be suffered during the mishap.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

North Dakota Senate Race Will Be Curtain-Raiser For Fall Election

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Now that the state of Maine votes with the rest of the nation, the most important curtain-raiser to the presidential elections takes place in North Dakota June 28.

Two top candidates are battling it out for the Senate seat of the late "Wild Bill" Langer—Gov. John Davis, Republican, and Congressman Quentin Burdick, Democrat, whose father spent many years in Congress as a liberal Republican who usually voted with the Democrats. Young Burdick is now officially and formally a Democrat and a live-wire member of the House of Representatives.

The battle is important because it will test the strength of the anti-Benson vote in the farm belt which usually is Republican. North Dakota hasn't sent a Democratic Senator to Washington for a long time, and GOP leaders are determined not to let it break this precedent.

That's why Gov. Nelson Rockefeller took the long trip to the northwest to campaign for Gov. Davis. It's also why the Farm Bureau, unflinching backer of Secretary Benson, has been distributing literature against Burdick. The literature makes a big show of listing Burdick as co-author of the Poage bill for stabilizing wheat production, though actually the bill is sponsored by Rep. W. R. Poage of Texas.

Finally, the importance of the North Dakota race is why Vice President Nixon has also been campaigning in the state. Simultaneous with his arrival, an interesting piece of literature was distributed to North Dakota voters. It was captioned "Quentin Burdick And His Communist Associates."

This was strongly reminiscent of another senatorial campaign in 1954 when Nixon toured Wyoming, Montana and Colorado, stumping against Senators O'Mahoney and Murra; and Congressman John Carroll.

At that time similar literature appeared in these three states reading: "Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Foreign Agent 783," "Senator Murray And The Red Weapon in Congress," and "How Red Is John Carroll?"

Patterson Flattens Johansson In 5th, Regains Title

Swede Takes Full Count At Polo Grounds

Floyd Becomes First Boxer To Recapture Heavyweight Crown

NEW YORK (UPI)—Floyd Patterson floored Ingemar Johansson twice in the fifth round for a full-count knockout in their return bout in the jammed Polo Grounds Monday night and became the first man in ring history to recapture the world heavyweight championship.

It was one of the greatest comebacks in boxing. Patterson, who had been floored seven times for a technical knockout in their first fight last June 26, came back Monday night and carried the fight to Swedish Ingemar from the opening bell.

However, in the second round, Johansson buckled Patterson's knees once.

Early in the fifth round, 25-year old Floyd exploded a left hook on Johansson's chin and he fell backwards to his haunches. He was up at the count of nine. Floyd went after him and battered him from rope to rope.

Dimpled Johansson, whose left eye was slightly cut and badly bruised in the first round, began bleeding freely from his mouth after the knockdown in the fifth round.

Let Go A Hook

As Patterson forced him about the ring, Floyd landed a right to the body followed by a terrific left hook to the head that smashed 27-year old Ingemar to the canvas where he lay flat on his back for three minutes. Referee Arthur Mercante could have counted 200 over him instead of the 10 that signalled the fight was over.

The time of the knockout was 1:51 of the fifth round. When Ingemar lay on the canvas, a wild scene was being staged above him as his personal physician, Dr. Gosta Karlsson, and the ring physicians, Dr. Alexander Schiff and Samuel Swetnick, argued as to what to do. Meanwhile, a horde of Patterson admirers climbed over the press, stepping on hands and typewriters and jumped into the ring to congratulate him.

Patterson, who weighed 190 pounds, the heaviest of his career, tagged previously unbeaten Johansson with the first defeat in his career of 23 bouts. Johansson, weighing 194½, entered the ring with a string of four straight knockouts.

Patterson, an underdog at 7½ to 5, succeeded Monday where eight previous ex-champions tried and failed to recapture the heavyweight title. It was their failures.

Title Fight By Rounds

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UPI) — A round by round account of the Ingemar Johansson - Floyd Patterson fight follows:

Round One

They sparred cautiously in the center of the ring with Ingo flicking his left a couple of times but missing. They clinched without a blow being struck. Patterson was short with a left and Ingo flicked a light left off Floyd's head. Patterson hit Ingo with a right to the stomach a left to the stomach and right to the head and drove him into the ropes. Ingo's left eye was reddening. Patterson came in with another left-right to the body that again drove Ingo into the ropes and blood began streaming from Ingo's nose. Patterson was plainly the aggressor. Patterson landed a hard right to Ingo's head and rushed him against the ropes and Ingo was trying to clinch. They clinched again when Patterson missed a looping left. Ingo's body as well as his face was beginning to redden and his left eye was bleeding. Patterson landed a left to the face and missed a terrific left. Patterson flicked a light left to the face as the round ended. I gave this round to Patterson.

Round Two

Patterson was short with a left but the ex-champ still was the aggressor. Patterson was leading with his left flicking it off Ingo's face. Patterson tried a double and right but did no damage. Patterson landed a looping right to Ingo's jaw again driving him back, but then Ingo with a right to the chin staggered Patterson. It was the first time Ingo threw his right. Patterson came back with a left and right to the body. Ingo flicked two light lefts off Patterson's head and Floyd was retreating. Patterson landed a left to the chin and Ingo a right to Patterson's jaw. Ingo was leading with his left trying to open up Patterson. Patterson went in with a flurry of lefts and rights to the body and forced Ingo into a clinch. They kept clinching without either doing any damage. I gave this round to Johansson.

Round Three

Patterson landed two light lefts to the jaw and then was short with another left as they clinched. Ingo kept flicking his left to Patterson's jaw trying to open him for a right hand such as won the title. Patterson came in with a left to the jaw and a hard right to the jaw and again pushed Ingo into the ropes. Ingo clinched and the referee separated them. Patterson drove a light right to Ingo's head. Patterson was held wild with a left and Ingo short with his flicking left. Patterson drove a left to the body and they went into another clinch. Patterson with a left to the body and right to the head drove Ingo into a corner and Ingo was short with his right. Patterson kept boring in. Patterson staggered Ingo with a left to the body and right to the head. Patterson landed a light left to the body as the round ended. I gave this round to Patterson.

Round Four

They applied ice packs to Ingo's left eye between rounds. Both missed light lefts to the head. But again both were trying to lead with lefts and keeping their rights in reserve. Patterson landed two lefts to Ingo's face and then followed with a third. Again

Ingo went into the ropes. Patterson drove a left to the jaw. The referee warned Ingo, who appeared to be using his elbow in the clinch. Patterson drove a left to the body and Ingo countered with a right to the jaw. Ingo was short with a right to the head. They exchanged hard rights to the head and then Patterson drove Ingo backwards with a right to the head. They stayed in a clinch nearly 30 seconds landing short body blows before they were separated. Patterson forced Ingo into another clinch with a left to the head, then drove a right to the body and a flurry of lefts and rights to the body as the round ended. I gave this round to Patterson.

Round Five

Barry MacKay, Buchholz Win At Wimbledon

Holmberg Ousted By Kurt Nielsen

By TOM OCHILTREE
Associated Press Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Two seeded American threats, Barry MacKay and Earl Buchholz hammered out impressive first round victories Monday in what may be the last amateur tennis championships at Wimbledon.

But Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn, considered one of the most improved U.S. players, was defeated 4-6, 8-6, 6-3, 10-8 by Kurt Nielsen of Denmark.

Fraser Easy Winner

Matching the American victors was Neale Fraser of Australia, the world's finest amateur and top seed here, who did little more than warm up in easing by Franz Hainka of Austria 6-2, 6-0, 6-4. MacKay, a genial strongman from Dayton, Ohio, put his double fault jitters aside and eliminated Spain's quick-moving Jose Arilla 6-2, 6-4, 7-5. MacKay, seeded second, was in complete control of the sun-baked center court.

Playing on the other court, eighth-seeded Buchholz of St. Louis, Mo., defeated Jaime Couder, another Spaniard, 6-3, 9-7, 2-6, 6-2. The crowd gasped at the powerful volleys of the 19-year-old Buchholz.

America's junior champion, Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., easily whipped Torvald Moe of Norway, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

Taken together, these American victories served notice on old rival Australia that this may be the United States' year at Wimbledon.

23,000 Attend Opening

None of the favorites was pressed as an opening day crowd of 23,000 enjoyed the traditional garden party atmosphere of this tournament. But in the air was the strong probability that next year the championship may be open. If that happens, the feared professionals in Jack Kramer's touring troupe are expected to appear again on the court where they saved as amateurs.

The women open play tomorrow. Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif. is seeded second behind defending champion Maria Bueno of Brazil. The defending men's champion.

Alex Olmedo, the former U.S. Davis cupper from Peru, has turned professional.

Patterson Flattens Johansson In 5th, Regains Title

Swede Takes Full Count At Polo Grounds

Floyd Becomes First Boxer To Recapture Heavyweight Crown

NEW YORK (UPI)—Floyd Patterson floored Ingemar Johansson twice in the fifth round for a full-count knockout in their return bout in the jammed Polo Grounds Monday night and became the first man in ring history to recapture the world heavyweight championship.

It was one of the greatest comebacks in boxing. Patterson, who had been floored seven times for a technical knockout in their first fight last June 26, came back Monday night and carried the fight to Swedish Ingemar from the opening bell.

However, in the second round, Johansson buckled Patterson's knees once.

Early in the fifth round, 25-year old Floyd exploded a left hook on Johansson's chin and he fell backwards to his haunches. He was up at the count of nine. Floyd went after him and battered him from rope to rope.

Dimpled Johansson, whose left eye was slightly cut and badly bruised in the first round, began bleeding freely from his mouth after the knockdown in the fifth round.

Let Go A Hook

As Patterson forced him about the ring, Floyd landed a right to the body followed by a terrific left hook to the head that smashed 27-year old Ingemar to the canvas where he lay flat on his back for three minutes. Referee Arthur Mercante could have counted 200 over him instead of the 10 that signalled the fight was over.

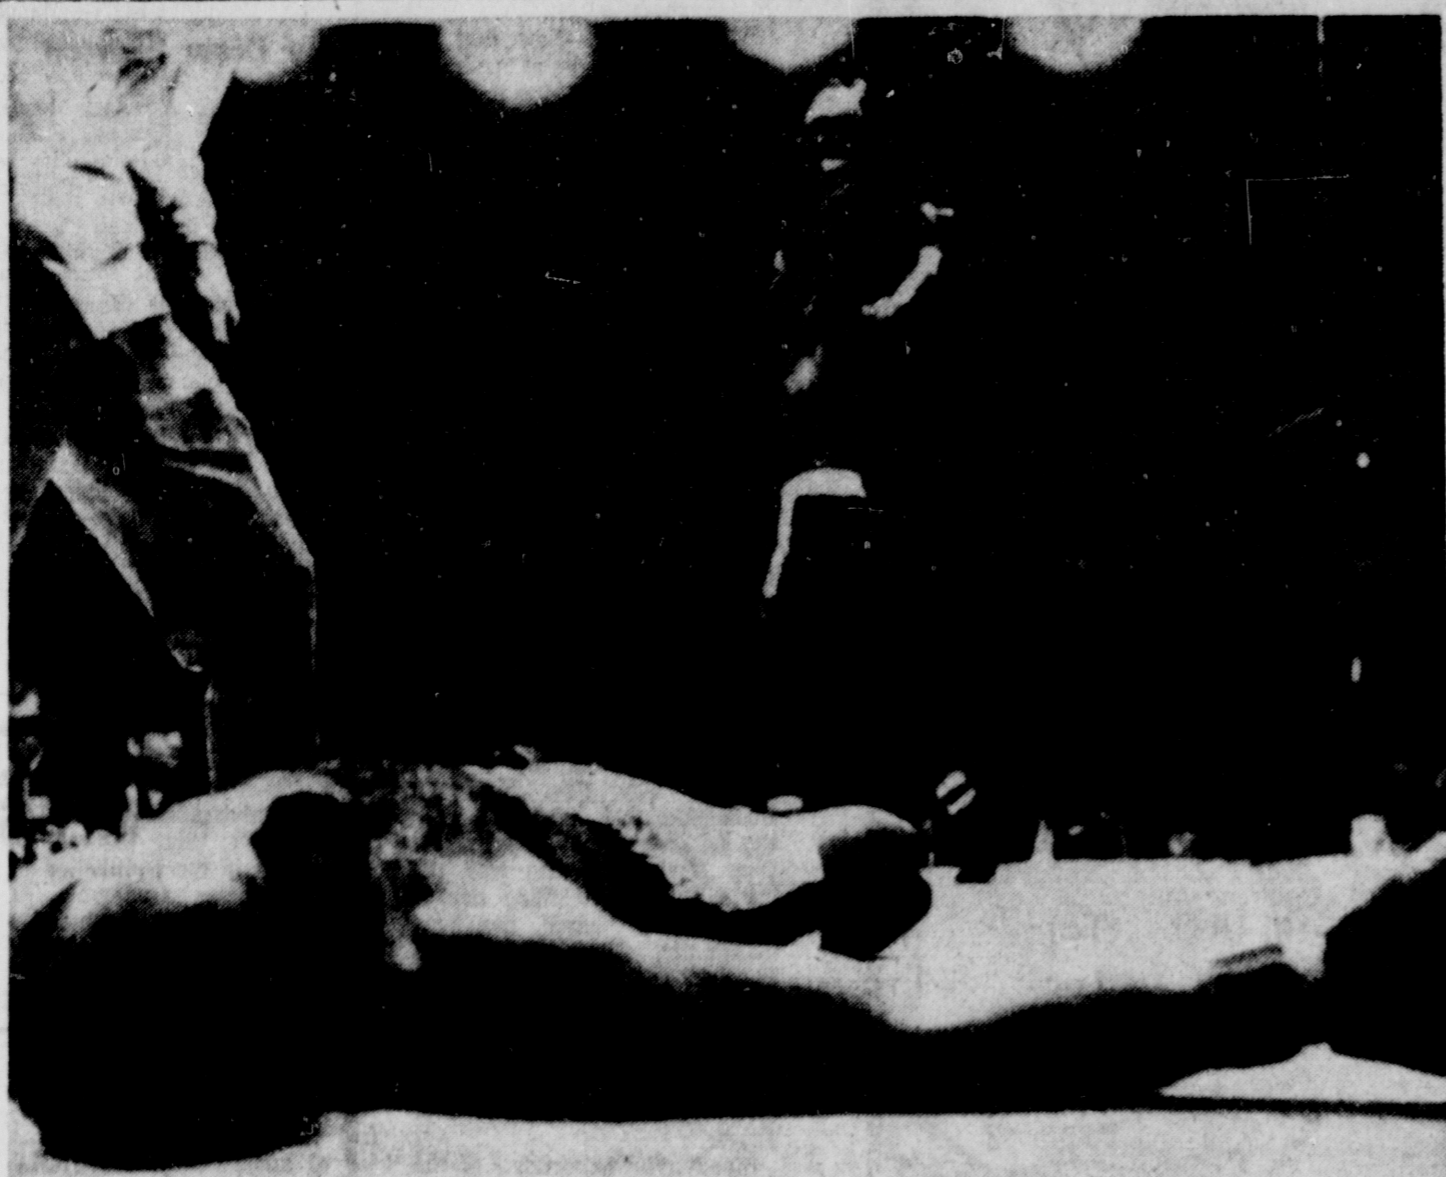

The time of the knockout was 1:51 of the fifth round.

When Ingemar lay on the canvas, a wild scene was being staged above him as his personal physician, Dr. Gösta Karlsson, and the ring physicians, Dr. Alexander Schiff and Samuel Swetnick, argued as to what to do. Meanwhile, a horde of Patterson admirers climbed over the press, stepping on hands and typewriters and jumped into the ring to congratulate him.

Patterson, who weighed 190 pounds, the heaviest of his career, tagged previously unbeaten Johansson with the first defeat in his career of 23 bouts. Johansson, weighing 194½, entered the ring with a string of four straight knockouts.

Patterson, an underdog at 7½ to 5, succeeded Monday where eight previous ex-champions tried and failed to recapture the heavy-weight title. It was their failures.

that gave birth to axiom in the heavyweight division: "They never come back."

Those who tried and failed were James J. Corbett (twice), Bob Fitzsimmons, James J. Jeffries, Jack Dempsey, Max Schmeling, Joe Louis, Ezzard Charles (three times) and Jersey Joe Walcott.

Those eight failed but all of them lacked what Patterson had Monday night — youth. He was the first ex-champion to try to in back the crown who was less than 30 years old. The others ranged in age from 30 to 40.

Ends His Reign

In tagging Johansson with his first defeat, Patterson also ended his reign as champion in six days less than a year, the third shortest in history. Marvin Hart had held it for seven months and 20 days and Primo Carnera wore the crown 15 days less than a year.

Patterson's victory brought the title back to the United States after the brief tenure by Johansson, who was the first Swede ever to hold the championship and the first foreigner to take it from the United States since Carnera lost the crown to Max Baer in 1934.

Their widely publicized return bout Monday night drew a crowd estimated at more than 40,000, and a gate believed to be more than $800,000. Out of their four and a fraction rounds of action, each fighter is expected to receive approximately $500,000 from Monday night's live gate and from theater — television, available to more than 700,000 persons in 123 cities of the United States and Canada and from more than $500,000 worth of other receipts from movie guarantees, radio and other outlets.

A return — bout contract provides that Patterson will defend the crown against Johansson in a "rubber match" within 90 days if Swedish Ingemar wants to fight.

QUALIFY FOR STATE TOURNEY — Four junior golfers of Cumberland and Frostburg yesterday qualified for the Maryland Jaycee Tournament in Hagerstown July 8-9 by pacing a field of 26 yesterday at the Cumberland Country Club. Swede Takes that gave birth to axiom in the heavyweight division: "They never come back."

Those who tried and failed were James J. Corbett (twice), Bob Fitzsimmons, James J. Jeffries, Jack Dempsey, Max Schmeling, Joe Louis, Ezzard Charles (three times) and Jersey Joe Walcott.

Those eight failed but all of them lacked what Patterson had Monday night — youth. He was the first ex-champion to try to win back the crown who was less than 30 years old. The others ranged in age from 30 to 40.

Ende's His Reign

In tagging Johansson with his first defeat, Patterson also ended his reign as champion in six days less than a year, the third shortest in history. Marvin Hart had held it for seven months and 20 days and Primo Carnera wore the crown 15 days less than a year.

Patterson's victory brought the title back to the United States after the brief tenure by Johansson, who was the first Swede ever to hold the championship and the first foreigner to take it from the United States since Carnera lost the crown to Max Baer in 1934.

Their widely publicized return bout Monday night drew a crowd estimated at more than 40,000, and a gate believed to be more than $800,000. Out of their four and a fraction rounds of action, each fighter is expected to receive approximately $500,000 from Monday night's live gate and from theater television, available to more than 700,000 persons in 123 cities of the United States and Canada and from more than $500,000 worth of other receipts from movie guarantees, radio and other outlets.

A return - bout contract provides that Patterson will defend the crown against Johansson in a "rubber match" within 90 days if Swedish Ingemar wants to fight.

Braves Boost League Lead

Muir Hits Grand Slam In 8-7 Win

Barton's Braves exploded for all their runs in the second inning and defeated Westernport in a Twilight Baseball League game yesterday at Barton by the score of 8-7.

The victory was Barton's 10th in eleven starts and gave the Braves a 3½ games lead over runner-up Lonaconing.

Louie Fazanbaker, who was supplanted by Grover Fazanbaker in the fifth inning, received credit for the win, his fifth without a defeat this season. Ollie Smith was tagged with the loss.

Each team collected ten safeties.

The big blow during the eighth-run second was a grand slam homer by Mike Muir. George Lauder socked a homer, double and single and Ed Warnick and Louie Fazanbaker garnered two singles each. Dick Wilson slammed a homer and single and batted in two runs for Westernport. Coleman also had two hits for Westernport while Smith, Niland and Foley rapped two-baggers.

Palmer, Snead 2-1 Favorites In Canada Cup

International Golf Tests Open Thursday

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland (UPI) — Arnold Palmer and Sam Snead stepped off a plane from the United States Monday and found themselves listed as 2-1 favorites to win the International Trophy and Canada Cup golf matches starting Thursday.

It was hard to get money on the Yanks even at that price. The reason for the low odds was, of course, Palmer's sensational American Open victory at Denver last weekend. There isn't a golfer, official or fan here who doesn't think the Ligonier, Pa., ace will win the individual title.

Before the American Open began, Palmer was quoted at 5-2 now it is cut to 2-1.

Draws Huge Gallery

Palmer drew a huge gallery when he went out to practice Monday with Joe Carr, Irish holder of the British Amateur championship.

It was also reckoned here that Snead was still good enough, despite a low placing in the American Open, to get "U.S." scratched on the trophy for the third time since the tournament began in 1953.

Aussies Rated At 4-1

Australia is expected to fill the runners-up spot in both team and individual placings. The Aussie players, Peter Thomson and Ken Nagle, were 4-1 for the team bid and Thomson, winner of this cup last year with Nagle, was on offer at 5-1 in the individual competition.

England, Ireland and South Africa are joint third favorites for the team prize, while British Open champ Gary Player of South Africa is the third choice for the individual title at 6-1.

Washington Offers To Trade Lebaron

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Redskins offered to trade quarterback Eddie Lebaron to the new Dallas Cowboys Monday for a number one 1961 draft pick and at least one player.

Coach Mike Nixon confirmed that the Cowboys have asked the Redskins to relinquish their draft rights to Lebaron, who ostensibly retired after the 1959 season.

Dallas received permission to discuss contract terms with the little quarterback and Lebaron later conferred with Washington owner George Preston Marshall by telephone.

Lebaron was reported to have been offered $20,000 to play with the Cowboys, plus a partnership in a Dallas law firm that would up his total earnings to about $50,000 a year. Marshall indicated that he would not stand in Lebaron's way if the new Dallas club agreed to the Redskins' asking price.

Pirates Open 13-Game Home Stand Today

The pennant-hungry Pittsburgh Pirates, off to the best start of any Pirate team in years, return to friendly Forbes Field tonight to open a 13-game home stand which will find them in Pittsburgh through July 3.

The Pirates will face all four western teams in the league in this home stand — St. Louis, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The St. Louis Cardinals will provide the competition for three night games — Tuesday the 21st, Wednesday the 22nd, and Thursday the 23rd. Then, the Cubs, playing .500 ball under Manager Lou Boudreau, come to town for a Friday night game, June 24; a Saturday afternoon game on the 25th, and a big Sunday doubleheader on the 26th.

After an off-day on Monday, the 27th, the Pirates face Bill Rigney's San Francisco Giants in three crucial night games — Tuesday the 28th, Wednesday the 29th and Thursday the 30th.

The Los Angeles Dodgers close out the home stand with a three-game series — Friday night, July 1st; Saturday afternoon, July 2nd, and a single game on Sunday, July 3.

FLYING PETAL IS RETIRED—A leg injury suffered earlier this month has resulted in the retirement to stud of Flying Petal, 9-year-old chestnut stallion, owned by Jack Wetzel, 10 North Centre Street. Flying Petal has been racing since 1953 and has won $13,805. He was purchased in March by Wetzel and raced twice at Shenandoah and once at Charles Town where his left front leg was injured. Flying Petal's sire is Jack High, winner of the Metropolitan Handicap in the record time of 1:35 for the mile and also won the Flash, Hopeful and Shevlin Stakes. Grandflore is his dam. A Maryland bred horse, Flying Petal was bought from Robert Griffith, of Philmont, Va., and is now on a Virginia farm.

Billy Cannon Free To Play At Houston

Court Rules Out Los Angeles Pact

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — All America Billy Cannon is free to play football with the Houston Oilers because the contract he signed with the Los Angeles Rams was simply an offer to enter into a binding agreement, a federal judge ruled Monday.

Cannon, former Louisiana State University halfback, was taken to court by the Rams of the National Football League to keep him from playing with anyone but them.

But District Judge William Lindberg ruled the contract he signed last Nov. 30—a month before his final college game in the Sugar Bowl—was only a tentative agreement to enter into such a contract.

After Cannon signed with the Rams for some $50,000 for a three-year period, he also signed with Houston of the fledgling American Football League for $100,000 for three years plus other benefits.

The judge ruled that the pact with Los Angeles should be characterized as "conditional precedent to execution" of a working contract.

Lindberg pointed out in a 27-page opinion, based on a week of testimony, that the Ram contract contained a condition that Cannon make the team before being placed on the Ram payroll.

The jurist said the Ram contract called for an ending date but no starting date, indicating it was conditional.

"We're very, very happy," said Cannon's attorney, Lowell Dryden. "We believe the judge handled the case in complete fairness to everyone."

"Billy will report to the Houston club when they start spring training," Dryden said.

Palmer, Sneed 2-1 Favorites In Canada Cup

International Golf
Tests Open Thursday

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland (UPI) — Arnold Palmer and Sam Snead stepped off a plane from the United States Monday and found themselves listed as 2-1 favorites to win the International Trophy and Canada Cup golf matches starting Thursday.

It was hard to get money on the Yanks even at that price. The reason for the low odds was, of course, Palmer's sensational American Open victory at Denver last weekend. There isn't a golfer, official or fan here who doesn't think the Lionheart, Pa. ace will win the individual title.

Before the American Open began, Palmer was quoted at 5-2 draws it cut to 2-1.

Palmer drew a huge gallery when he went out to practice Monday with Joe Carr, Irish holder of the British Amateur championship.

It was also reckoned here that Sneed was still good enough, despite a low placing in the American Open, to get "U.S." scratched on the trophy for the third time since the tournament began in 1953.

Aussies Rated 4-1

Australia is expected to fill the runners-up spot in both team and individual placings. The Aussie players, Peter Thomson and Ken Nagle, were 4-1 for the team bid and Thomson, winner of this cup last year with Nagle, was on offer at 5-1 in the individual competition.

England, Ireland and South Africa are joint third favorites for the team prize, while British Open champ Gary Player of South Africa is the third choice for the individual title at 6-1.

Washington Offers To Trade Lebaron

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Redskins offered to trade quarterback Eddie Lebaron to the new Dallas Cowboys Monday for a number one 1961 draft pick and at least one player.

Coach Mike Nixon confirmed that the Cowboys have asked the Redskins to relinquish their draft rights to Lebaron, who ostensibly retired after the 1959 season.

Dallas received permission to discuss contract terms with the little quarterback and Lebaron later conferred with Washington owner George Preston Marshall by telephone.

Lebaron was reported to have been offered $20,000 to play with the Cowboys, plus a partnership in a Dallas law firm that would up his total earnings to about $50,000 a year. Marshall indicated that he would not stand in Lebaron's way if the new Dallas club agreed to the Redskins' asking price.

Pirates Open 13-Game Home Stand Today

The pennant-hungry Pittsburgh Pirates, off to the best start of any Pirate team in years, return to friendly Forbes Field tonight to open a 13-game home stand which will find them in Pittsburgh through July 3.

The Pirates will face all four western teams in the league in this home stand — St. Louis, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The St. Louis Cardinals will provide the competition for three night games — Tuesday the 21st, Wednesday the 22nd, and Thursday the 23rd. Then, the Cubs, playing 500 ball under Manager Lou Boudreau, come to town for a Friday night game, June 24; a Saturday afternoon game on the 25th, and a big Sunday doubleheader on the 26th.

After an off-day on Monday, the 27th, the Pirates face Bill Rigney's San Francisco Giants in three crucial night games — Tuesday the 28th, Wednesday the 29th and Thursday the 30th.

The Los Angeles Dodgers close out the home stand with a three-game series — Friday night, July 1st; Saturday afternoon, July 2nd, and a single game on Sunday, July 3.

FLYING PETAL IS RETIRED—A leg injury suffered earlier this year has resulted in the retirement to stud of Flying Petal, 9-year-old chestnut stallion, owned by Jack Wetzel, 10 North Centre Street. Flying Petal has been racing since 1953 and has won $13,805. He was purchased in March by Wetzel and raced twice at Shenandoah and once at Charles Town where his left front leg was injured. Flying Petal's sire is Jack High, winner of the Metropolitan Handicap in the record time of 1:35 for the mile and also won the Flash, Hopeful and Shevlin Stakes. Grandflore is his dam. A Maryland bred horse, Flying Petal was bought from Robert Griffith, of Philmont, Va., and is now on a Virginia farm.

Billy Cannon Free To Play At Houston

Court Rules Out
Los Angeles Pact

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — All America Billy Cannon is free to play football with the Houston Oilers because the contract he signed with the Los Angeles Rams was simply an offer to enter into a binding agreement, a federal judge ruled Monday.

Cannon, former Louisiana State University halfback, was taken to court by the Rams of the National Football League to keep him from playing with anyone but them.

But District Judge William Lindberg ruled the contract he signed last Nov. 30—a month before his final college game in the Sugar Bowl—was only a tentative agreement to enter into such a contract.

After Cannon signed with the Rams for some $50,000 for a three-year period, he also signed with Houston of the fledgling American Football League for $100,000 for three years plus other benefits.

The judge ruled that the pact with Los Angeles should be characterized as "conditional precedent to execution" of a working contract.

Lindberg pointed out in a 27-page opinion, based on a week of testimony, that the Rams contract contained a condition that Cannon make the team before being placed on the Rams payroll.

The jurist said the Rams contract lasted for an ending date but no starting date, indicating it was conditional.

"We're very, very happy," said Cannon's attorney, Lowell Dryden. "We believe the judge handled the case in complete fairness to everyone."

"Billy will report to the Houston club when they start spring training," Dryden said.

Heavy Selling Presses Prices In Stock Market

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks sharply in the week before last, met some heavy selling Monday with many of the recent favorites among the casualties. The loss was the fifth in seven sessions.

Airlines took flight in response to a fare boost for domestic trunk lines, while steels, autos, leading electronics, rails and utilities ended lower on balance.

Brokers regard this latest setback as a further correction of any previous excesses that might have occurred when prices rallied

PPG, Union Extend Terms Of Contract

New Pact To Run
Until February 1962

A labor contract covering members of Local 180, United Glass and Ceramic Workers of North America at Works Seven here of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, has been extended one year to February 16, 1962.

Announcement of the labor contract extension was made yesterday following a meeting in Columbus, Ohio, of company and union officials.

Ralph Reiser, international president of the union, and Donald J. Sherbondy, director of industrial relations for Pittsburgh Plate, pointed out that the contract effective February 16, 1961, was not due to expire for eight more months.

Mutual Cooperation

Both the company and union officials reported the extension was reached in an excellent spirit of mutual cooperation and insures uninterrupted operations for the next 20 months.

In contrast, the last contract was signed following a 134-day strike, the longest in the company's history. The agreement at the end of the strike included the submission of six issues to a board of impartial arbitrators.

Approximately 10,000 glass workers at plants located at Cumberland, Creighton and Ford City, Pa., Crystal City, Mo., Mt. Vernon, Ohio, Clarksburg, W.Va., and Henryetta, Okla., are covered by the extended contract.

Contract Provisions Listed

The agreement extending the contract includes provisions for the following:

Increased free group life insurance benefits from $2,000 to $3,000 for men and from $1,500 and $2,000 for women, effective October 1, 1960.

Increased non-occupational group sickness and accident insurance benefits from $30 to $50 per week for a maximum of 26 weeks, effective October 1, 1960.

Increased monthly contributions for hospitalization and surgical benefits from $4 to $6.25 for single employees and from $9 to $14.25 for employees with dependents, effective September 1, 1960.

Increased pension benefits and effective August 28, 1960, compulsory retirement at age 65 of employees eligible for a pension.

Effective February 16, 1961, a wage increase of four cents per hour for employees not on bonus or incentive. At certain plants the amount of money applicable for such a wage increase was not applied uniformly, but provision made to use it instead for varying adjustments of individual rates.

Officials To Meet Again

The parties agreed to meet in February 1961 to discuss problems and conditions of mutual concern and to work out adjustments where justified.

The union delegation was headed by Mr. Reiser; Leland Beard, first international vice president; Lewis McCracken, international secretary-treasurer, and Joseph Luntz, district president.

The company delegation was headed by Mrs. Shenbondy; Robert M. Hainsfurther, general manager, of plate glass factories, and Walter G. Koupal, general manager, window glass factories.

Brust Appears On TV Show

A. Trago Brust Jr., this city, chairman of the public relations advisory committee of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, appeared on a television program at 7 o'clock last night from the Harrisonburg, Va., station.

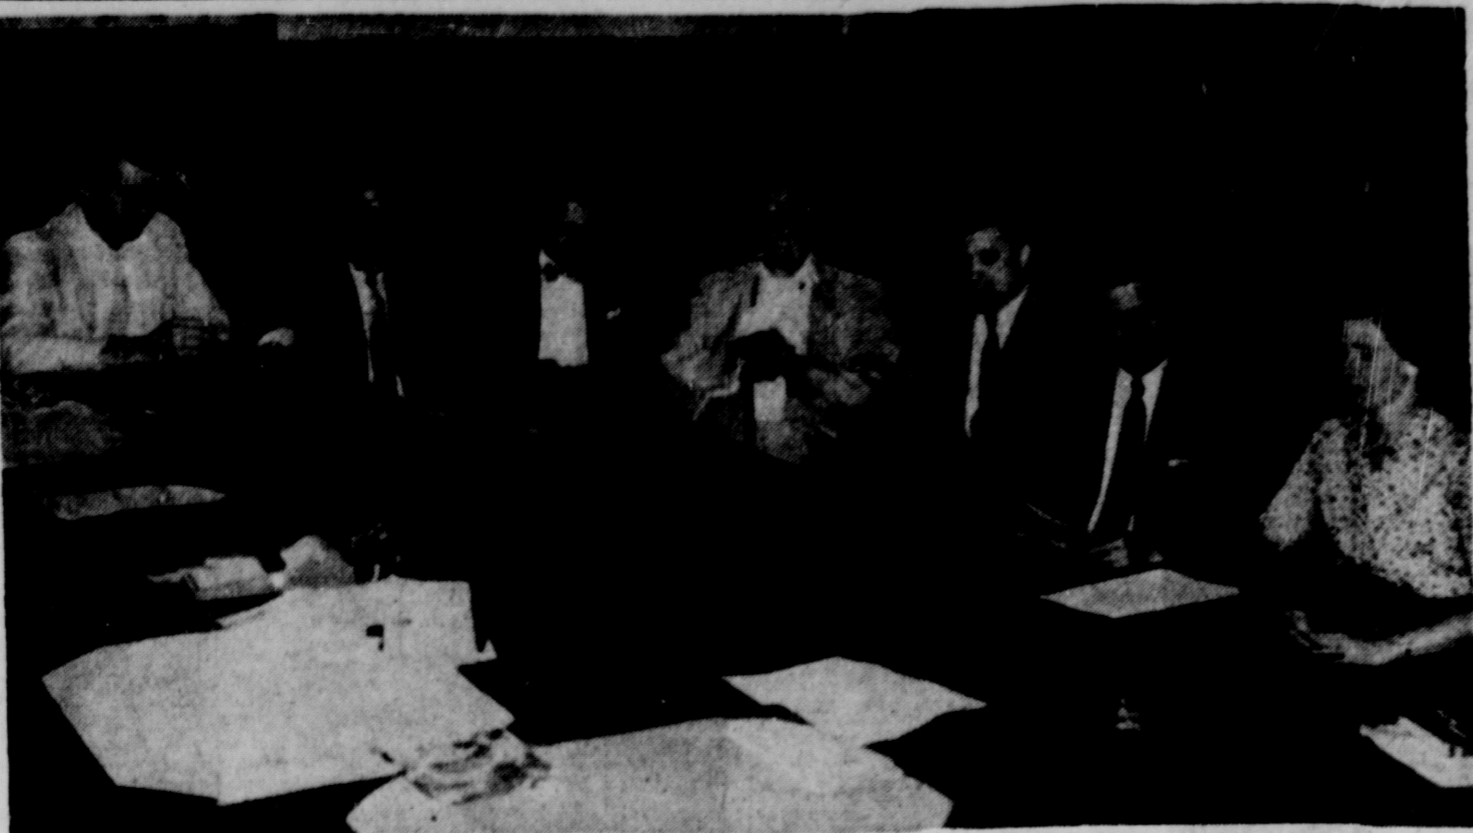

Mr. Brust and Carl J. Johnson, conservation consultant for the Interstate Commission which embraces Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, were interviewed on a 15-minute program by Homer Qualm of the station.

They discussed a number of programs aimed at the overall pollution abatement in the Potomac Basin. Mr. Brust, who also is public relations manager of the Luke mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, pointed out that the Cumberland area is interested in more water for industrial uses, expansion of water recreation, flood control and elimination of pollution caused by acid mine drainage from abandoned coal mines.

Mr. Brust called attention to the recommendation for three additional dams on the North Branch of the Potomac River in this area. He said the Savage River Dam, which began operations in 1952, has improved flood protection in this area and also was a major factor in the decision of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company in locating a new plant here and of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company engaging in a $50,000,000 expansion program.

Mr. Johnson formerly served as director of the West Virginia Conservation Commission.

Last night's program was the first of four Monday programs planned on pollution abatement.

200 Maryland Youths Gather At College Park

Boys State Opens
For 13th Year

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Boys State elected officials for four make-believe cities with paper ballots Monday evening because their voting machines weren't working.

The high school juniors had been instructed earlier in the day how to operate the machines. But they switched to secret paper ballots because officials couldn't get the names inserted in the machines.

About 200 boys are attending the 13th annual citizenship training program, sponsored by the American Legion, which runs through Saturday. Split into the Nationalist and Federalist parties, they held party conventions before electing a mayor, comptroller and councilmen for the "cities" of Legion, Key, Flag and Maryland.

There was a three-way tie for a fifth seat on the Key council among Neil Baker of Perryville, John Tucker of College Park and Walter Weedman of Washington, all Federalists. They will meet Tuesday in a run-off election.

Those elected were: Maryland — Mayor Don Pearson of Oxon Hill, Comptroller Tom Wilson of Cambridge, Council President Dennis Hupp of Baltimore and councilmen Ralph White of Glen Burnie, Bob Woytych of West Hyattsville, Jack Sullivan of Silver Spring, Ken Tegges of Baltimore and Tony McCarthy of Greenbelt.

Key — Mayor Phil Craven of Washington, Comptroller Alan Leadbetter of Washington, Council President Bob Zachidny of Hampstead, Carroll County, councilmen Matthew McDowell of Greenbelt, Douglas Chambers of Rising Sun, Dave Brigham of Sandy Spring, Montgomery County and Jim King of Silver Spring. Small Girl Hurt

A six-year-old local girl was admitted to Memorial Hospital last night with a fractured right elbow she sustained when she fell from an automobile in South Cumberland.

Admitted to the hospital was Jacqueline Offen, of 17 Offutt Street. The accident occurred on Third Street, but City Police had no report of the accident.

The veteran local fireman said most of the fatalities result because the rider, trapped under water, usually tries frantically to open the door. But the door will not open because of the pressure of water outside. He then panics — needlessly in most cases.

Instead, the rider must do an unnatural thing: calmly let the car fill with water. When the pressure inside equals the pressure outside, the door will open easily.

He need not drown while the car fills. If the car lands upright, a pocket of air remains inside, more than enough to last the 10 or 15 minutes it takes the car to fill.

When the water stops rising, the pressure inside is about equal to the outside pressure. He then takes a deep breath, opens the door, pushes out and up to the surface. The air pocket remains after the door is open, no need to hurry, take time and do not panic.

Chief Parker said this is what to do:

If a car submerges with windows open, upright position. Same air pocket only water rushing through open windows, brace yourself against force of incoming water, keeping head against roof out of water. The car will fill faster, not so long to wait then open door the same way as described previously and rise to the surface.

When a car overturns and rests on its top. The same procedure is required, head against floor board until pressure equalizes; so able to open door and driver gets out.

Car lands on side, window open — water rushing in. Keep head against door below window opening until car fills. Door would almost float open or smaller person could float out the window opening to rise to surface. Car lands on side, window closed. Position self with head against door below window opening, until car almost fills. Then, with few inches of space left, take deep breath, open window and open door or as above float self through window opening and to surface.

Training Center Permit Issued

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers yesterday was issued a building permit by the Allegany County assessing department to construct a new training center in the Cresaptown area for Army Reserve units here and in Lonaconing.

The one-story brick and concrete block center will be built at a cost of about $267,300, according to the permit which indicated there will be two sections, one measuring 126 by 55 feet and the other 50 by 45 feet.

The George F. Hazelwood Company has been awarded the contract to build the facilities which will be located along U.S. Route 220 near the Amelle plant.

The center will be constructed on 6.11 acres of ground purchased from the Celanese Fibers Company and will be located on land between the company swimming pool and the Second National Bank branch building.

The Evitts Creek Land and Improvement Company was issued a permit to build an addition to the Cumberland Country Club on Christie Road at a cost of about $22,700.

Arraignment Slated Today For Two Men

Westernport Firm
Entered June 7

Thomas H. Greene, 32, of Keyser, and William W. Wilson, 40, of Bloomington, are scheduled to be arraigned this morning in Allegany County Circuit Court in connection with the breaking and entering and theft of merchandise from the Potomac Candy Company in Westernport the night of June 7.

They will appear before Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley of Oakland. Yesterday a criminal information in the case was filed in court by Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney.

The information specified that 38 cartons of cigarettes valued at $81.25; a box of cigars valued at $3.20 and a box of candy valued at 85 cents were taken from the company.

Authorities said the tenants who live on the second floor of the premises detected two men loitering about the building and called police.

Wilson was reported to have jumped on a Western Maryland Railway Company freight train but was later nabbed in Keyser and voluntarily returned to Maryland for prosecution.

Greene was arrested at the scene by Westernport police. The men were later questioned by County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and waived their right to a jury trial and will be tried on the criminal information.

Baker Hospitalized Following Crash

David S. Baker, 56-year-old area pilot, was reported still in "critical" condition last night at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, where he was admitted yesterday following a plane crash near Short Gap, W.Va.

Mr. Baker, who was owner and pilot of the light plane, suffered a broken jaw and head injuries. Robert Colbank, 21, of RFD 1, Tunnelton, W.Va., a passenger in the plane, was admitted to the same hospital for X-rays and observation.

The plane crashed about noon on the farm of William G. Urice on the Short Gap Road.

Police said the men were flying on an oak wilt survey out of Martinsburg. The State of West Virginia has been running this type of survey for a number of years.

Police said the plane crashed into a group of large trees. The tail assembly was ripped from the craft. Police also stated that the wings and propeller were snapped off the craft which landed on its top.

UWA Local Turns Down C&A Offer

60 Members Vote
At Labor Temple

Members of Local 419 of the AFL-CIO Utility Workers of America turned down a proposal by the Cumberland and Allegany Gas Company for a renewal of their contract, DeWarren H. O'Neal, president of the union, said last night.

Approximately 60 of the union's 80-odd members met at the Allegany Labor Temple to hear the company's offer in the contract negotiations. The C&A's contract with the Utility Workers local expired here May 31 and union members have been working for the past three weeks without a pact.

The utility company earlier this month withdrew its demands in the negotiations and offered their renewal of the expired contract. As an alternative the C&A also offered the renewal with any pertinent changes resulting from current negotiations with other unions now bargaining with its affiliate, Manufacturers Light and Heat Company.

Mr. O'Neal made no further statement on the refusal last night, simply stating that the union's membership did not go along with the company's proposal. He also declined to state what demands, if any, the union is making during the bargaining.

In urging the union to accept its proposal earlier the company had stated "the renewal of last year's contract will work to the advantage of UWA 419 members here because our studies show the expired contract provided for wages equal to those now paid by other utilities in this area" and added that the company's fringe benefits under the expired contract compared very favorably with present provisions paid by other companies.

County Library Board Trustees Elect Officers

Miss Mary Walsh
Named Librarian

The new Allegany County Library Board of Trustees held an organization meeting last night, elected officers, appointed committees and named Miss Mary C. Walsh as county librarian.

Dr. Adam Baer of Frostburg, who served for several years as chairman of the county library committee, was elected chairman of the board. John T. Mason, county commissioner, was elected vice chairman.

Mrs. Jeanette C. Johnson of LaVale was elected secretary and James Alfred Avirett, local attorney, was elected treasurer.

The board also named George Henderson, retired Circuit Court chief judge, as its legal advisor.

Dr. Baer appointed three committees, including Budget—Commissioner Mason and F. Allan Weatherholt; By-Laws—Mr. Avirett and Mrs. Johnson, and Properties and Inventory—Okey Michael of Westernport and W. Wallace McKaig, Cumberland.

After the organization and appointments, the first official act of the board was to pay tribute to the long service of Miss Mary C. Walsh, librarian of Cumberland Free Public Library, and to appoint her the first county librarian of Allegany County.

To Miss Walsh will now fall the responsibility of the mechanics of conversion and coordination of the county-wide library program, and the selection of the personnel, subject to approval of the board, to man the various posts at the main stations in Cumberland and the several county branches.

Pension Law Is Cited By VA Official

Widows or orphans who have previously applied for pensions from the Veterans Administration and have been ruled ineligible should explore the possibility that they may become eligible under the new pension law effective July 1, 1960.

They may receive full information at the VA office, Room 308, of the Post Office here or by telephoning Sam Weston, officer in charge, at PA 2-3611.

Mr. Weston explained that many widows or orphans of World War II or Korean War veterans are not eligible for pensions under the present law which requires that the deceased veteran had a service-connected disability at the time of his death.

Effective July 1 this year, the new law eliminates this requirement.

Many World War I, World War II and Korean War widows and orphans also are not eligible for pensions under the present law because their annual income exceeds $1,400 for a widow or orphan alone or $2,700 for a widow with a child.

The new pension law effective July 1 increases these income limits to $1,800 and $3,000, respectively.

PPG, Union Extend Terms Of Contract

New Pact To Run
Until February 1962

A labor contract covering members of Local 180, United Glass and Ceramic Workers of North America at Works Seven here of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, has been extended one year to February 16, 1962.

Announcement of the labor contract extension was made yesterday following a meeting in Columbus, Ohio, of company and union officials.

Ralph Reiser, international president of the union, and Donald J. Sherbondy, director of industrial relations for Pittsburgh Plate, pointed out that the contract effective February 16, 1961, was not due to expire for eight more months.

Mutual Cooperation

Both the company and union officials reported the extension was reached in an excellent spirit of mutual cooperation and insures uninterrupted operations for the next 20 months.

In contrast, the last contract was signed following a 134-day strike, the longest in the company's history. The agreement at the end of the strike included the submission of six issues to a board of impartial arbitrators.

Approximately 10,000 glass workers at plants located at Cumberland, Creighton and Ford City, Pa., Crystal City, Mo., Mt. Vernon, Ohio, Clarksburg, W.Va., and Henryetta, Okla., are covered by the extended contract.

Contract Provisions Listed

The agreement extending the contract includes provisions for the following:

Increased free group life insurance benefits from $2,000 to $3,000 for men and from $1,500 and $2,000 for women, effective October 1, 1960.

Increased non-occupational group sickness and accident insurance benefits from $30 to $50 per week for a maximum of 26 weeks, effective October 1, 1960.

Increased monthly contributions for hospitalization and surgical benefits from $4 to $6.25 for single employees and from $9 to $14.25 for employees with dependents, effective September 1, 1960.

Increased pension benefits and effective August 28, 1960, compulsory retirement at age 65 of employees eligible for a pension.

Effective February 16, 1961, a wage increase of four cents per hour for employees not on bonus or incentive. At certain plants the amount of money applicable for such a wage increase was not applied uniformly, but provision made to use it instead for varying adjustments of individual rates.

Officials To Meet Again

The parties agreed to meet in February 1961 to discuss problems and conditions of mutual concern and to work out adjustments where justified.

The union delegation was headed by Mr. Reiser; Leland Beard, first international vice president; Lewis McCracken, international secretary-treasurer; and Joseph Luntz, district president.

The company delegation was headed by Mrs. Shenbondy; Robert M. Hainsfurther, general manager, of plate glass factories; and Walter G. Koupal, general manager, window glass factories.

Brust Appears On TV Show

A. Trago Brust Jr., this city, chairman of the public relations advisory committee of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, appeared on a television program at 7 o'clock last night from the Harrisonburg, Va., station.

Mr. Brust and Carl J. Johnson, conservation consultant for the Interstate Commission which embraces Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, were interviewed on a 15-minute program by Homer Qualm of the station.

They discussed a number of programs aimed at the overall pollution abatement in the Potomac Basin. Mr. Brust, who also is public relations manager of the Luke mill of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, pointed out that the Cumberland area is interested in more water for industrial uses, expansion of water recreation, flood control and elimination of pollution caused by acid mine drainage from abandoned coal mines.

Mr. Brust called attention to the recommendation for three additional dams on the North Branch of the Potomac River in this area. He said the Savage River Dam, which began operations in 1952, has improved flood protection in this area and also was a major factor in the decision of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company in locating a new plant here and of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company engaging in a $50,000,000 expansion program.

Mr. Johnson formerly served as director of the West Virginia Conservation Commission.

Last night's program was the first of four Monday programs planned on pollution abatement.
